NEGRO BURNED AT THE STAKE IN KANSAS.

Sheriff Declares He Was Powerless to Prevent Leavenworth Mob's Frightful Deed.

Associated Press Dispatches by The Tribune's Special Leased Wire

LEAVENWORTH, Kan., Jan. 16—Officials responsible for the life of Fred Alexander, the negro burned to death at the stake yesterday, began the preparation of their defense.

The negro's guilt of the assault and murder last November of Pearl Forbes which he denied with his last breath was, they say, conclusively proven by the man's own statements while held at the Lansing penitentiary. This evidence will be gathered and published.

In addition Sheriff Everhardy said today that the report that Alexander had assaulted a third girl at Stillings, near here, was true, and that the young woman had appeared at the penitentiary before the start for Leavenworth and positively identified the negro as her assailant.

Sheriff Everhardy, who, together with Warden Tomlinson of the penitentiary, is responsible for the removal of Alexander from the penitentiary, offered his defense this morning. Last night, overcome by the strain under which he has worked since Alexander's arrest, Everhardy went to bed and sent word to a newspaper man that he was too ill to make a statement. Today he said:

"You have no idea what a trial I have had since Saturday night. Those who condemn me should place themselves in my position. I did my duty so far as lay in my power, but I was overwhelmed by superior numbers. I told the Warden I would land Alexander in the County Jail and I did. When realized that the crowd was bent on getting my prisoner I stood up in the carriage and called to the driver to drive to the county jail in spite of the crowd and overrun anyone who should get in the way. I locked the man up and did not give up the keys, though several demands were made on me. I deplore the fact that Alexander was burned. I did my full duty as Sheriff of Leavenworth county."

When asked regarding the report that he had begged Governor Stanley for state militia, Sheriff Everhardy said:

"I did not request that. I am now glad the troops did not arrive for if they had there would have been several innocent lives lost. The militia could have done no good. Two companies would have been powerless to suppress the mob and I have not the least doubt that every National Guardsman would have been killed. It is not for me to say whether I think the man guilty of the crime."

No arrests of leaders of the mob have been made, notwithstanding the fact that dozens of the men who participated are known. The Coroner's Jury sat on the case this afternoon.

DENOUNCED BY LEGISLATURE

TOPEKA, Kan., Jan. 16—A joint resolution was passed by the Kansas Legislature today deploring and condemning the burning at the stake of Fred Alexander by a mob at Leavenworth yesterday. The resolution favors a most rigid investigation of all the acts and circumstances attending the lynching, and demands that the perpetrators be punished to the full extent of the law.

The resolution was passed unanimously in the House but met with some opposition in the Senate.

OLD JED PROUTY IS ORDERED THROWN OUT OF THE MACDONOUGH.

Richard Golden Goes on a Wild Tear—Pretty Alfreda Healy May Follow the Actor on the Circuit—Wife Is Sick.

When will Richard be himself again?

Those good people of Oakland who only attend the theater when some play that has the endorsement of the ministers is the attraction are likely to shy at all such performances hereafter. An idol has been shattered. "Old Jed Prouty," the apotheosis of the turkey and barnyard drama whose mission it has been supposed was to purify the moral atmosphere of the stage, has raised more kinds of scandal in this peaceful community than all the other plays that ever visited Oakland put together.

Frisky soubrettes have pirouetted on the stage of the Macdonough in abbreviated skirts and black stockings. Wicked minstrels have cracked their double entendre jokes and sung songs that would never get an encore at a Christian Endeavor Convention, and have gone their way, leaving no record of face slapping, hysterics and illuminated jags behind them. It remained for that good old New England farmer, Jed Prouty, he of the benign countenance and rock-ribbed piety, that incarnation of lamblike innocence, to give the local gossips a rich morsel of scandal to roll under their tongues for the next month.

Richard Golden, who is the "Old Jed" of the drama is no quitter, whatever else he may be. After his exasperated wife had slapped the face of her rival for his eclectic affections and made a scene in the theater that threw the whole performance into confusion it might have been supposed that the notoriety given him in the affair would have had a sobering influence on him, at least until he got out of town. But nay, nay, Pauline. Golden started in yesterday to reduce the visible supply of tanglefoot to a point that would make Oakland a profitable field for liquor drummers. He succeeded so well that before the performance of "Old Jed Prouty" began at the Macdonough last night Manager Rudolph appeared before the curtain and informed the audience that Mr. Golden was playing a "Ten Nights in a Barroom" engagement on the "cocktail circuit," and that his role would be assumed by another member of the company. Mr. Rudolph further informed his hearers that they were in luck, as the understudy would give a far better portrayal of the part than Golden was capable of giving. He said that all those who were dissatisfied with this arrangement could get their money back at the box office. Mr. Rudolph wound up his speech by assuring the audience that he had given strict orders to have Golden thrown out of the theater should he venture to show his face on the stage.

With this cheerful introduction the performance began and limped along to its close. Golden's understudy had evidently not had time to memorize his lines, and the voice of the prompter coaching him could be heard all over the theater.

Golden was interviewed between drinks last night. He said he met Miss Healy at Seattle. With characteristic modesty he said that he supposed Miss Healy did admire him, and he wanted to know who could blame her. Many other young ladies admired him. He couldn't help his fascinating personality, and Miss Healy was a girl whose admiration any man would strive for. She was young, good looking, and best of all rich. Her bringing up, he declared, was of the best—an assertion that will be taken with some qualification by Oakland connoisseurs of good form.

As for Miss Healy herself, this shrinking violet from Montana, whose penchant for wine suppers and dressing-room tete-a-tetes with Golden ended in a slapped face after she had treated an outraged wife to a torrent of abuse, is now calming her fluttered nerves somewhere in seclusion and cannot be found.

This morning the "Old Jed Prouty" company left for San Jose on the 9 o'clock train—all but "Dear Old Jed." He had been "heating to windward" along the cocktail route the best part of the night, and instead of showing up at the station to join the company he sent a note to Manager Rudolph saying he was not in condition to join the company just now, and that he had left a bunch of money at the Palace Hotel, whether for publication or purely as a guarantee of good faith he failed to explain.

And now the question agitating the Rialto is: WHEN WILL RICHARD BE HIMSELF AGAIN?

Richard Golden did not play the title role in "Old Jed Prouty" at the Macdonough Theater last night.

The curtain went up as usual, but the play was badly crippled, for Golden, whose mind was still perturbed over the sensational scene enacted in the alley way back of the proscenium boxes at the theater the night before, when his wife rudely interfered with his basking in the smiles of a beautiful rival, by slapping the latter's face, was not even permitted to set foot in the house.

Indeed, Golden's perturbation drove him to seek consolation along the gin cocktail route.

No doubt many who thronged the theater last night, having perused the details of the sensational face-slapping episode, were present out of curiosity or expectation that hostilities between the actor's wife and Miss Alfreda Healy might be renewed and perchance something more serious than ordinary hair pulling happen.

Manager Will Rudolph, however, put these expectations in the shade. He stepped to the footlights and announced that he was "sorry to state that Mr. Richard Golden would not appear in 'Old Jed Prouty' tonight." He said that Mr. Golden's usual tranquility had been sorely disturbed over the notoriety of an incident that was not

THE PARIS INVESTIGATION IS ENDED.

Committee Decides to Send the Whole Matter Back to the Assembly.

Associated Press Dispatches by The Tribune's Special Leased Wire

SACRAMENTO, Jan. 16—The Assembly Committee on Commissions and Public Expenditures held an executive session this morning before the Assembly was called to order.

It was decided to report to the Assembly the findings in the Paris Commission matter adopted at yesterday's session, that no vouchers have been filed, that but a short time has elapsed since the fair closed its doors, that one of the members of the Commission is still absent from the State, that the Committee at present has nothing before it to investigate. The whole matter will be turned over to the Assembly for such action as may be deemed advisable. The report will be made tomorrow morning.

Assemblyman Savage, chairman of the Committee on Municipal Corporations, which last night decided to report favorably upon Assembly bill 15, providing for the letting of street railway franchises, has received numerous protesting telegrams against what is termed snap judgment in the matter. He will accordingly delay reporting the bill back to the Assembly until Monday. In the meantime all interested parties will be given an opportunity to state their views on the measure before the Committee.

DEATH OF B. COLLINS.

SACRAMENTO, Jan. 16—The desk of the late Assemblyman Collins of Butte was draped in mourning this morning when the Assembly was called to order and literally buried beneath flowers. When Collins' name was reached on roll call, Grove L. Johnson, his life-long friend and associate, arose and said:

"Our friend and associate has been called upon to answer a roll in a land not made by hand. In that undiscovered bourne from which no traveler returns he is today in the presence of the great Creator—rendering his accounts of his deeds on this earth. For twenty-one years I have known Mr. Collins. I had known him as an affectionate husband and father, a good citizen, a strong friend.

"That the death of our friend, our associate, our neighbor, the Hon. B. Collins receive due recognition, I request that this Assembly take appropriate action to that effect."

After the reading of the Journal resolutions were adopted, providing for a committee of five, to consist of three Assemblymen and two Senators, to take full charge of the funeral of the dead member, and for a committee of five Assemblymen and five Senators to draft suitable resolutions. The following resolution was introduced by Melick and adopted:

"Whereas, The Almighty giver of all law has in his inscrutable wisdom seen fit to bereave this Assembly of one of its members and to deprive the State of a faithful servant, Hon. Barnabas Collins; now, therefore, be it

"Resolved, That the Assembly does hereby adjourn this day out of respect to the memory of our deceased colleague; and be it further

"Resolved, That a copy of these resolutions be spread upon the minutes."

The Speaker appointed as a committee of three to act with a committee of the Senate to take charge of the funeral services, Schilig, Johnson and Schlesinger; as a committee of five to act with five Senators in drafting suitable resolutions, Rutherford, Dunlap, McNeal, Higby and Cowan.

Adjournment was then taken until 2.30 A. M. tomorrow.

IN THE SENATE.

SACRAMENTO, Jan. 16—When the Senate was called to order this morning Assembly communications were taken up and the resolutions adopted early in the day in the Assembly out of respect to the late Assemblyman Collins was adopted.

Lieutenant-Governor Neff appointed to serve on the Committee on Funeral Arrangements Senators Magard and Sims. On Senator Magard's motion it was voted that when the Senate adjourn it adjourn out of respect for the memory of the late Assemblyman.

Assembly bill No. 9, calling upon the State representatives in Congress to use their best endeavor to secure an adequate appropriation, by the Congress now in session, for the deepening and enlarging of Oakland harbor, was introduced.

Devlin introduced a constitutional amendment to Section 8, Article II, of the State Constitution relating to framing of a charter for cities of more than 3,500 inhabitants.

The Senate adjourned until 11 A. M. tomorrow.

MERCHANTS MAKE FORMAL PROTEST.

A delegation of protestants against the proposed opening of Washington street appeared before the Board of Public Works this morning.

Martin M. Dunn protested against the proposed opening of the street through his corner property on the ground that it would necessitate the total destruction of his buildings, leaving land of insignificant amount and value; that the improvement is unnecessary.

Following are the grounds on which Abrahamson Bros., Kahn Bros., Thomas Crellin, J. T. Moran, Sallinger Bros. and F. W. Schutz base their protest:

That the opening of Washington street will not benefit the land proposed to be assessed; that there is no desire by the general public for the opening; that only a few interested owners are desirous that the general district shall pay for the enhancement of their properties to the damage and detriment of other holdings, that condemnation of the Dunn property will incur great expense to owners not interested, that taxpayers have not yet decided upon bonds for a new City Hall, that if the street is opened there will not be room enough on the west side of Washington between Fourteenth and Fifteenth street for the City Hall without the purchase of the block westward.

Sol Kahn, in addressing the board relative to the protest, said:

"The Washington street property owners are not opposed to opening Washington street, but they are opposed to the method of opening it. We represent some 200 feet.

"If the corner at Fifteenth street and San Pablo avenue be condemned, it will be done so at an enormous cost. Nothing is to be gained by condemning or cutting through that corner.

"Now suppose the bonds for a new City Hall fail then the proposition practically falls through, or this old City Hall will be destroyed. Would it not be proper for the city to protest against this matter. What is left for the city to do? Either sell the San Pablo avenue frontage of the City Hall plot or purchase other property. We know what municipalities do when they sell or buy. When they sell they see how low a figure they can stand.

"We protest against opening the street in an extravagant manner. The street can be opened by other than a straight line. The opening of the street will neither benefit Washington street nor San Pablo avenue."

Mayor Snow stated that he had on one occasion vetoed the opening of the street in accordance with the views expressed in the protests, but that the matter had evidently reached a stage beyond his vetoing power.

A resolution was finally adopted referring the protests, and all similar protests filed before January 18th to the City Attorney for approval with the request that he report on same next Saturday morning so that the Board can act in the matter at next Monday afternoon's meeting preceding the Council's session.

SAYS W. A. BRANDES MADE A CONFESSION

Deputy District Attorney T. W. Harris went to Folsom Prison today to see C. C. Sullivan, a life termer.

It is claimed that W. A. Brandes, the alleged child murderer, made a full confession of the crime to Sullivan while the latter was in the Alameda County Jail.

Harris has gone to get the alleged confession.

Sullivan was the burglar with Wilmore in Alameda when the latter was killed. He says Brandes confessed to him.

BIG FACTORY FOR BERKELEY.

One of the largest furniture factories on the coast is to be established at West Berkeley. Deeds were placed on record this afternoon to a block of land in the Berkeley Land and Improvement Company's tract on which the factory will be built.

The credit of securing the enterprise is due to the West Berkeley Improvement Club. Eastern men will establish the factory.

It is calculated that at least $100,000 will be invested in the plant at once.

NO NEBRASKA SENATOR.

LINCOLN, Neb., Jan. 16—The two houses of the Legislature met in joint convention today and balloted for United States Senator with the following result:

Allen, Fusion, 56; W. H. Thompson, Fusion, 53; Crounz, 10; Currie, 20; Hainer, 5; Hinshaw, 16; Meiklejohn, 26; Rosewater, 14; D. F. Thompson, 33; balance scattering.

QUAY IS ON DECK.

Goes to Washington to Qualify and Work.

Associated Press Dispatches by The Tribune's Special Leased Wire

HARRISBURG, Pa., Jan. 16—Senator M. S. Quay left for Washington this morning in company with his daughter, Miss Cora, and Private Secretary Wright.

Edgar C. Gerwig, private secretary to Governor Stone went to Washington this afternoon with the Senator's commission. Mr. Quay expects to qualify tomorrow as a Senator and then return to Harrisburg and direct the passage of the reform bills to which the Quay Republicans are committed.

The Senate and House met jointly at noon and verified the vote for Senator at yesterday's session, after which Lieutenant Governor Gobin formally declared Mr. Quay's election.

Speaker Marshall received a telegram today from a party of Pittsburg manufacturers and business men, requesting him to invite Governor Stone, Senators Quay and Penrose and the members of the Legislature who voted for Mr. Quay to attend a banquet to be given in his honor in Pittsburg at a time to be fixed later.

FATAL CHICAGO FIRE.

Associated Press Dispatches by The Tribune's Special Leased Wire.

CHICAGO, Jan. 16.—In a fire which destroyed the Aberdeen apartment building here today, Frank Crowell, superintendent of Swift & Co.'s factory, lost his life while trying to save his bank book and insurance policy. A score of other tenants escaped with difficulty. The loss was $75,000, including the personal effects and household goods of twelve families.

TRIAL BEGINS.

State Closes Its Case and the Defense Begins.

Associated Press Dispatches by The Tribune's Special Leased Wire

PATERSON, N. J., Jan. 16—Interested crowds today filled the approaches to and the room in which the trial of three of the alleged murderers of Jennie Busscheiter, the mill girl, is being held.

The State having rested its case last night, the day's proceedings began with the presentation by counsel of the case for the defense.

Of the three men accused Death showed most of the effects of the strain which they are passing through. Fear, dejection and extreme nervousness were depicted in his countenance and movements. McAllister, on the other hand, was comparatively self-possessed, but Campbell was evidently troubled and anxious.

SWORD DUEL.

Writers on the Field of Honor and One Badly Wounded.

Associated Press Dispatches by The Tribune's Special Leased Wire

PARIS, Jan. 16—A duel with swords was fought today between M. Urbain Gohier, a well-known anti-military writer, and author of "The Army Against the Nation," and M. Lataple, a journalist, who considered himself insulted by one of M. Gohier's articles in the Aurore.

M. Gohier was severely wounded in the abdomen during the first onslaught and the duel was stopped.

LITTLE CHANCE FOR SHIP'S CREW.

The Flottbek Is a Complete Wreck and All Hands are Probably Lost.

PORT TOWNSEND, Wash., Jan. 16—The German ship Flottbek, reported ashore yesterday south of Cape Flattery, is probably a complete wreck and there is a bare chance of the crew having escaped death, according to reports brought here this morning by the tug Holyoke arriving from the cape.

The Holyoke reports a strong southwest gale and tremendous seas off Cape Flattery, which prevented the tugs dispatched to the assistance of the stranded vessel from reaching the scene of the disaster, and the captain says that so furious is the gale that it would be almost impossible for anything to withstand the force of the sea; even if anything is left of the unfortunate craft it will be a miracle. It is his opinion that the vessel was broken to pieces.

Two tugs are waiting an opportunity to reach the scene of the disaster and will venture out as soon as the weather will permit.

on the program the night before. If there were any in the audience who were dissatisfied with Mr. Golden's understudy taking the title role, they could have their money refunded. Few there were who left the house, and the show went on and "Dick" Golden went along the gin cocktail route, drowning his sorrows in the bowl that knows no trouble while flowing.

Golden's understudy, though an earnest and painstaking student, stumbled through his assigned part on crutches. All through the play the prompting was painful, and half the audience was constantly watching the boxes, hoping that almost any moment Mrs. Golden and her likewise beautiful rival to her husband's affections might come walking into the boxes at either side of the stage.

But their fondest hopes were not realized, for Mrs. Golden was lying almost prostrated at the Waldeck Sanitarium in San Francisco, while her popular husband was doing the cocktail route. The enchanting Miss Healy from over the Rockies has gone into hiding. And orders that all stage doors leading to the boxes be kept locked were strictly observed.

The audience, when the curtain finally dropped, left disgusted, for there had been neither good comedy, melodrama, nor tragedy, either on or off the stage.

Richard Golden had little to say last night regarding the scandal. He admits, frankly, however, that the pretty face of Alfreda Healy is engrafted upon his heart.

"I met Miss Healy in Seattle," he said. "She was stopping with her sister, Mrs Jackson, at the Rainier Grand Hotel. I suppose she does admire me. Many young ladies do. And Miss Healey is a girl whose admiration any man would strive for. She is young and good looking, accomplished and talented. Her bringing up, I am assured, was of the best, and her people, I understand, are very wealthy. She is the daughter of Captain Healy, who, they tell me, is a mining magnate of Montana. She told me last night she was visiting her sister, who is a resident of Oakland."

Whether the beautiful Alfreda's mad infatuation for the clever actor will yet result in disrupting Manager Will Rudolph's company remains to be seen.

No one knows where she is in hiding, and as for Richard, the object of her love, he was not at the First and Broadway depot at 9 o'clock this morning when the other members of the company took the train for San Jose, where "Old Jed Prouty" is billed to appear tonight.

Mrs Golden was not there, either. She will be compelled to undergo further treatment at the Waldeck Sanitarium, for she is a very sick woman today, and the discovery of her husband in the overt act of flirting with Miss Healy in the proscenium box rasped and racked and shattered her nerves. She still declares that her husband insulted her when he took Miss Healy's part after she had slapped Miss Healy's face. Mr. and Mrs Golden have been married seven years, and Monday night's episode was the first infelicitous thing that has jarred their domestic happiness.

Will Rudolph, the affable manager, suffers the brunt of the whole affair. He admits that he "felt sore" over Golden's actions, but that American chivalry might not be said to have become a back number, he blames no one but Actor Golden himself.

"Of course I feel sorry that it all happened," he said to a TRIBUNE man, "but I hope it has all ended now.

"Yes, orders were given that Golden be thrown out of the theater last night if he put in an appearance. He had been drinking the past several days and has not been himself. I suppose he went out to dine with Miss Healy and drank some wine. Maybe he got started that way.

"The story as printed in THE TRIBUNE is correct, but I am sorry it all happened. However, it is strictly a domestic quarrel, and so long as it does not interfere with our show I would not care to discuss the affair.

"I believe this Miss Healy's home is in Montana, where she has a millionaire father. I know little about her, though. I first met her in Seattle, where she claimed to have been visiting a sister. We dined coming down on the steamer. She is one of those awfully quiet girls, don't you know, who, when she speaks can make a man believe the moon is made of green cheese. Well, I hope the affair is ended."

"No Mr. Golden is not here with us this morning and the train leaves for San Jose in a few moments. Mr. Golden went to San Francisco this morning to get a bunch of money he had left at the Palace Hotel, so he told me. He's all right this morning, only he's sick. But he will follow, I hope, on a later train for San Jose. Whether Mrs Golden will accompany him I cannot say, but I presume she will remain a while longer at the Waldeck.

"What'll I do if Golden don't show up at San Jose? Why, the show will go right on, anyhow."

About the Macdonough last night it was rumored that relations between actor and manager had reached the strained climax and that Manager Rudolph had become "very sore," that he had refused to allow Golden to take his trunk and that he had declared that he would "just as leave drop Golden," who gets a salary of $30 a week, contending that he could run the show without him.

During this afternoon it was whispered that the beautiful Alfreda had shaken the Oakland dust from her dainty kids and left suddenly for San Jose, leaving behind one of the spiciest morsels of theatrical gossip that has ever dropped with the curtain at the Macdonough.

MIGHTY WISE IS ENGINEER HICKS.

The Recesses of the Earth are Very Familiar to Him.

Lewis A. Hicks, the Civil Engineer, who testified yesterday in the Water Case in the Superior Court that the Niles basin would furnish a daily supply of 22,000,000 gallons of artesian water, was again on the stand this morning. This enormous volume of under-ground water is a matter of deduction with him, just as it was with Prof. Lawson, who found water under the ground by looking at the hills and studying text books. Mr. Hicks estimated that the annual draught of the entire district, including the Alvarado works and the sugar-refinery wells, had not fallen below 2,000,000,000 gallons.

The pumping records show that the Alvarado works draw on this to the extent of 1,800,000,000 gallons. In other words, the flow widely varies. For the twenty years between 1880 and 1900 he placed the mean average draught at 8,000,000,000 gallons. He said in some years, when the rainfall was excessive the draught or sand absorption might amount to as much as one hundred million gallons in a year.

A BIG WATER STORY.

According to his theory, all the water contained in the Niles cone comes from the overflow of the Spring Valley dam in Alameda Creek. As no water flows over this dam for the greater portion of the year, in ordinary seasons, it must burrow in the sand at an extraordinary rate to afford the vast quantity he alleges is contained in the cone. The flow of the entire stream during the dry months is insufficient to meet the demands of the Spring Valley Company, hence that corporation has sunk artesian wells in the Pleasanton basin to reinforce the supply.

Yesterday, Professor Lawson estimated that the Spring Valley Company drew 3,000,0000 per day from these wells, which are situated in the Alameda creek water shed.

A CHEAP ENGINEER.

Mr. Hicks is not expensive in his ideas of expense even if his estimates of underground streams are on a grand scale. He estimated the cost of an artesian plant at $3,000 per 1,000,000 gallon supply daily. The cost of boring and casing 12-inch wells ready for pumping at $1 per foot. His estimates of other necessary expenses were on the same modest scale. According to his figures, a million-dollar plant would supply San Francisco from the "Niles Cone" and leave plenty for Oakland, San Jose and other outlying municipalities. If Mr. Hicks is anywhere near correct either in his estimates of quantity of water or cost of making it available all the hydraulic engineers who have planned and constructed water works in the vicinity of the bay are very small potatoes and mighty few in a hill. Thirty cents would look like a heap of money besides such beer-check experts as Schussler, Adams, Schuyler, Le Conte, Boardman and others who have figured for years as eminent and practical exponents of hydraulic engineering in California.

A MAN OF LIMITED EXPERIENCE

When Mr. McCutcheon who was on deck this morning, took Mr. Hicks in hand for cross-examination there was a wicked gleam in his eye though he went at his man as softly as a fox after a young gosling. He speedily developed the fact that Mr. Hicks' entire experience with artesian water consisted in planning one small plant.

"Was it a success?" cooed McCutcheon gently.

"It was a failure, I believe."

More questioning revealed with still greater clearness the fact that Mr. Hicks' hydraulic experience was in inverse ratio with his ideas. Whether the largeness of his ideas is drawn from the smallness of his experience can only be a matter of conjecture; but Mr. Hicks is a sandy complexioned man of a very evident sanguine temperament. One can picture him as a small boy with red hands and a damp nose chasing a flock of snowbirds to sprinkle salt on their tails.

NOT AN EXTENSIVE READER.

It developed that Mr. Hicks entertained several novel theories about the effect of tides on artesian water and other little matters. He said extra high tides would raise the water in artesian wells along the seashore.

"What scientific books have you ever read treating of the effect of tides on artesian water near the seashore?"

"None."

He was in the same predicament in regard to his other original theories.

Under the stress of McCutcheon's searching inquisition, Hicks admitted that no engineer could tell with any certainty that artesian water could be obtained at any particular point without actual experiment—by boring. He also admitted that the extent of artesian flow was governed by the same conditions that govern surface flow. Catchment area, precipitation and evaporation all had to be taken into consideration. Being still further pushed, he said there were channels and sub-drainage areas underground as well as on the surface. This was brought out to show that the cone theory was totally misleading because wells sunk in one section of an artesian basin might produce abundantly while wells sunk in other sections would produce but little or no water.

"Where have you sunk artesian wells?" he was asked.

"I sunk two in the Kern delta," was the answer.

"Did you not sink one of them in the vicinity of a well already flowing?"

"I believe so."

"And you got no water in it?"

"I got water in that well."

"Did you sink a well in that country that did not flow and had to be abandoned?"

"The well flowed."

"But it was abandoned?"

"It was abandoned because the fine sand came in with the water and there was no clay above it."

KERN DELTA A CONE.

The character of the Kern delta which includes Kern Island, next came under review. Mr. Hicks said the Kern delta was a cone.

"Do you mean to say that it is a cone similar to such as you describe at Niles?"

"Yes."

"Is there any gravel there?"

"Yes, there is some."

"Is it not all sediment, with occasionally a little fine sand?"

"'Gravel' is a well borer's term; it is not a scientific expression."

"Is it not a fact that there is practically no gravel in all the region known as the Kern delta?"

"That's a question of nomenclature."

"Gravel is never mistaken for anything else, is it?"

"No."

BETWEEN TWO FIRES.

McCutcheon showed a surprising familiarity with the hydraulics of the Kern delta. First he got the witness to state that the quantity of water flowing in Kern river at the lowest stages averages 1,000 cubic feet per second, and then made him admit that from one-half to three-quarters of this water was distributed over the delta by means of irrigating ditches.

"There are wells all over that district, are there not?"

"Over a good portion of it."

"Do they not vary in depth according to locality?"

"Yes."

"Wells in certain localities have a certain average mean depth while other wells in other localities have an entirely different average mean depth?"

"Yes."

"Do you say that all the underground water in that region comes from the same body of water?"

"I do."

"A lot of wells have been sunk somewhere like midway between Kern Canyon and Buena Lake, have they not?" (indicating a point on the blackboard.)

"Yes."

"How deep are they?"

"From 75 to 100 feet."

"Did you sink a well between those wells and the canyon?"

"I did."

"How deep was it?"

"Eight hundred feet."

"Did you get flowing water?"

"Yes."

"Did you sink a well west of these shallow wells near the shore of Buena Vista Lake?"

"Yes."

"How deep was it?"

"One thousand feet."

"Did you get flowing water?"

"I did."

"Is it not about thirty miles from the thousand-foot well and the 800-foot well?"

"I think it's about fourteen or fifteen miles, no, it's further than that."

"And these seventy-five foot wells are about midway between the two?"

"About that—a little to one side."

"And all are flowing wells?"

"Yes."

"And they are all supplied by the same body of water?"

"Yes."

"Do you mean to say that wells in widely separated localities of varying depths and in different strata are all supplied by the same reservoir—that the same water found in those 75-foot wells is the same as that found in the 1,000-foot and the 800-foot wells?"

"Yes."

A VERY POSITIVE MAN.

"Do you know exactly how much water flows in Kern river?"

"Yes."

"You know because you measured it for a number of years?"

"Yes."

"Do you know how much water flows in this socalled underground channel?"

"Yes."

"Did you ever measure it?"

"No."

"Did you ever see it?"

"No."

"Is there any way to get at it?"

"I figure on the catchment area and the rainfall—"

"That is begging the question, Mr. Hicks; is there any way to get at this underground stream to measure its flow or define its channels?"

"No."

NO CRACKS FOR HIM.

"The elements of loss in surface streams are matters of easy determination, are they not? They consist of evaporation and seepage?"

"Yes."

"Can anybody tell what the loss of underground streams is?"

"There is no loss from evaporation."

"Can you tell where the water goes when it disappears underground?"

"It can be determined by engineering experience."

"Might it not flow off in underground streams in directions that no man can define or follow?"

The witness fenced about and McCutcheon followed up his advantage with another query.

"May there not be cracks or underground chasms?"

The witness thought not. The only loss for the underground water of the Kern river delta he would admit was the loss by hydraulic gradient to the lower levels of the San Joaquin valley.

"Can anybody tell what that loss is?"

"No."

MERELY AN EMPLOYE.

It developed that the wells Mr. Hicks spoke of sinking in the Kern delta were sunk by the Kern County Land Company, witness being merely an assistant to Walter James, the engineer in charge. Another engineer named Dixon was still above Hicks, who occupied a very subordinate position.

"Did you ever sink a well in the Kern delta that did not flow water?"

"No," somewhat faintly.

"Do you mean to say that the Kern County Land Company never sunk any wells that did not flow, although sunk in the vicinity of flowing wells?"

"Not that I know of," but the answer was very weak.

A TWO-STORY CONE.

Then Mr. Hicks was made to elaborate his theories regarding the Niles district. It developed that he had gone Professor Lawson one better in the matter of cones, as well as in several other things. He said the Niles cone was a two-story affair, the Dry Creek cone being superimposed upon it. Why the water did not run out of the upper story and into the lower story was not stated. According to this view Dry Creek Canyon belongs to a much more modern geological epoch than Niles Canyon.

"Is not that guesswork, Mr. Hicks?"

"No," said the witness with the jaunty confidence of youth.

Court took a recess till 1:30 o'clock this afternoon.

MAPPING UNDERGROUND CHANNELS.

In the afternoon Mr. Hicks revealed more of his astonishing familiarity with the "innards" of the earth in the bay region. Figuratively speaking, he laid the top open and pulled the bowels out by the hair of the head for general inspection. He made a drawing of the Niles cone and lines showing where the artesian stream sunk down at a sudden angle.

"How do you know the water flows down that way?"

"By my observation and the data at my command."

"What data have you showing this?"

"I have stated my data here repeatedly."

"But no data have been produced showing any such underground flow or the deflection you indicated."

"It is a conclusion that I draw from such data as I have and my personal observation."

"Is it not all a mere speculation?"

"No, sir; I don't call it a speculation."

"There has been no actual demonstration of such channels and their direction?"

"No further than I have stated. It is an assumption based upon observations."

The gravel channels he drew were made to execute an underground curve to account for finding water at certain places, and not finding it at the same depth in other places.

NOT DETERRED BY FACTS.

In describing the erosions at the mouth of Niles Canyon the witness made some statements which caused McCutcheon to ask him if there were no exceptions to the rule he laid down.

"There are exceptions, but on exception is not possible here," he said.

"May not this be one of them?"

Hayne objected on the ground that it was hypothetical.

"It is not hypothetical," replied McCutcheon. "I am asking the witness about a fact which he says could not exist, but which we will prove does exist."

Hicks insisted that there was no possibility of an exception in the case mentioned. In the course of his examination the witness broke his vast underground reservoir up into a multitude of vagrant channels, but stuck to it that they could be tapped by the well that was "logged" and "jolted" at Roberts' Landing. In explaining his theories he used four kinds of chalk and out-talked all the lawyers. Mr. Hicks is an astonishingly rapid young man. He has peculiar methods of pronunciation as well as original views about geology and hydraulics. For instance, he calls a cone a "coen."

COULD NOT MEASURE THE GRAVEL.

"You have told us how much water is in that cone; now tell us how much gravel is in the cone."

Instead of answering, the witness branched off into a description of the erosion at the mouth of the canyon.

"Can't you tell us how much is gravel and how much water in this 9,000 acres?" persisted the lawyer.

The witness explained that he took his water measurement from the rainfall. Witness said the magnitude and character of the cone was determined by the watershed back of it.

"Do you mean the watershed or the material that is washed from the watershed?"

The character of the watershed controls the depositions."

Witness said the channel of Alameda creek had at different times shifted to every point within the radius of the cone.

"Did not the channel at one time run clear outside of radius of this cone, as you call it?"

The answer was a somewhat wandering statement that the drift rarely ever exceeded a radius of 12 degrees.

"What cones have you ever examined save this one and the cone you say is on Kern river?"

"I have examined hundreds of other cones in California for the United States Government."

"When?"

"Within the last two months."

"Outside of that your experience in hydraulics was mainly confined to sinking surface wells in the Kern river basin?"

"Yes."

"What is there in that cone besides gravel and water?"

"There are horses of clay or other sediment."

"Can you tell us how much of the cone is gravel and how much clay horses?"

He figured out that one-half an estimated stratum of gravel carried water. By estimating a given quantity of water to each cubic foot, he found that the cone contained a total of 20,000,000,000 gallons. Evidently Mr. Hicks is a close figurer.

Yesterday's Proceedings.

When THE TRIBUNE went to press yesterday Louis A. Hicks was still on the stand.

Mr. Hicks said he had examined the region between the bay shore and the Contra Costa hills with a view to ascertaining its capacity as a probable source of artesian water supply. He had done this at the instance of those who employed him in this case.

He doubted Professor Lawson's estimate of the quantity of water contained in the Alameda creek cone, placing it at twenty thousand million gallons. This is a pretty stiff figure, considering that no artesian water has yet been developed in the Alameda creek cone, so-called, though artesian water has been developed at various points near the bay shore all the way from San Lorenzo to Milpitas, the largest amount being developed in the vicinity of Alvarado.

Mr. Hicks said the San Lorenzo creek cone is much smaller than the Alameda creek cone, and the data regarding it not nearly so complete. Mr. Hicks was quite cheery in his testimony, and volunteered statements from time to time that were stricken from his testimony. He had measured the water underground by looking at the surface, but was supremely confident in the correctness of his deductions.

"In your opinion can a supply of water be developed from this underground flow sufficient to supply the city of Oakland?" asked Hayne.

Moore objected on the ground that the witness did not know how much water would be required to supply the city of Oakland, and also because the question covered a wide expanse of territory that the city does not own and has no prospect of owning. While the attorney was arguing he glanced around at the witness, whose face was wreathed in a sarcastic smile.

"What are you laughing at, sir?" demanded Moore sharply. "At me?"

"I was not aware that I was laughing," said the witness soberly.

SOME BIG FIGURES.

Mr. Hicks went on gaily to state that he estimated the mean annual draught or yield of the Alameda creek cone to be eight thousand million gallons, or about 22,000,000 gallons daily.

Then he located (in his mind) electric pumping stations all over the artesian basin, and merrily pumped into Oakland and surrounding towns. His scheme involved the construction of one large central generating plant and to transmit the power to various wells that might be sunk in different localities. Sometimes a "horse" would be struck in boring a well, which would cause the well to be valueless.

"A what?" asked Hayne.

"A horse," replied the witness with the air of a man who considered a horse a very natural thing to be found in a well.

THERE'S A DIFFERENCE IN WELLS.

Mr. Hicks said there would be a great difference in wells sunk in the same artesian territory. Those sunk in horses yielded no water, of course, and the flow of others varied according to the character of the gravel through which they pass. A well sunk ten feet from another drawing upon the same supply with the same pressure might yield a great deal more water by reason of the cross-sectional lines of gravel.

A MATTER OF BELIEF.

"Are you so confident in the correctness of your opinion that you would advise a client to invest large sums in that water bearing strata?" asked Hayne.

"It is wholly improper for a witness to buttress up his testimony by saying he would bet on the truth or advise some one else to bet on it," said Moore. "The witness has given us the benefit of his valuable opinion, and he cannot strengthen it by saying he would advise others to risk their money by acting on it. There are some men so self-confident that they will advise anybody to do almost anything, and some men so pig headed that they will back their opinions with their own money, but the fact that they are willing to do these things or say they are willing to do them cannot give added force or strength to their original statements."

A lively wrangle ensued on the propriety of the question, Hayne arguing strenuously to admit evidence of a character that was ruled out on his motion. Engineer Schuyler was asked a similar question on behalf of the water company. Hayne fought it so vigorously that it was ruled out.

The court decided that the testimony could not be ballasted in that way.

The case went over until this morning.

PRIEST'S MURDERERS.

Associated Press Dispatches by
The Tribune's Special Leased Wire.

LONDON, Jan. 16.—Inquiries made in the proper quarters here show that the United States authorities have not asked for the extradition of either Michael Judson, alias "Red Mike," or James French, alias "French Jim," who are said to be implicated in the murder by means of "knock-out drops" at Philadelphia of Rev. Charles P. Riegal, a Roman Catholic priest, and one of whom at least, according to advices from Philadelphia, had shipped on a vessel thought to be the Ikbal, which sailed from Philadelphia, January 4th, for Liverpool. Nothing is officially known here of the case.

GRAND JURY HEARS DALTON CASE.

The Grand Jury was in session again this morning. T. C. Stoddard, one of Assessor Dalton's field deputies in Alameda, was called as a witness. He testified before the former Grand Jury that he made his field notes on his cuffs and that his records were destroyed when he sent his soiled linen to the laundry.

Ex-County Expert J. C. Bullock was also summoned as a witness.

SUSPENDED FOR NOT ATTENDING A DRILL.

The Board of Fire and Police Commissioners met this morning, with Mayor Snow and City Engineer Clement present.

J. N. Hewett, Brady W. Martin and Frank B. Schmidt filed applications for positions in the Oakland Fire Department.

A communication from Fire Chief Ball notifying the Board of extra Fireman Thomas Pullis' death, was filed.

Chief of Police Hodgkins reported that he had suspended Policeman Wm. Kingsbury one day for failure to attend monthly drill when notified so to do.

D. E. COLLINS TELLS OF FUTURE OF Y. M. C. A.

Saloon for Every Fifty Young Men in the City.

A Splendid Showing Made in Oakland for Past Year.

At the annual meeting of the Young Men's Christian Association D. Edward Collins, President of the Association, spoke as follows:

"In the old world as well as in this country our State has attracted the attention of thoughtful men. It is recognized that California is to become an important center of the world movements of the century and that here are to be solved many of the social and religious questions that have vexed us in the past. In the solution of these complex problems the Young Men's Christian Association must form an essential factor. Its value and importance in many directions have already been recognized by occupants of the White House as well as our humblest citizen.

"This Association is but one, and yet this large and representative gathering of young men gives promise that it is to continue to be one of the most influential in the State. Our membership should be increased and our aim should be to give evidence of the highest possible Christian manhood. Personally I am greatly pleased with the brilliant and excellent reports which have been presented. Let us take courage and press forward."

SECRETARY'S REPORT.

The report of the secretary for the year ending December 31, 1900, is as follows:

"Mr. President and Members: Again we come to the period when as stewards of God's manifold mercies it is our privilege to speak of what He hath done. In looking over the work of the past year we note many things wherein we have failed; nevertheless we are led to believe that God hath surely been with us. Our inability and insufficiency, supplemented by His strength, have been overruled to His glory.

"As this will be my last annual report to the Oakland Association it may be of interest and value to briefly review the six years and five months we have labored together to advance God's kingdom among the boys and young men of this city.

"I arrived in Oakland August 6, 1894, and immediately entered upon my duties as general secretary. At that time I found the Association without any definite income and only 265 paid-up members; there were no organized committees; the religious work had been suspended; the assistant secretary and junior department secretary had both resigned and left; the building was in bad condition from roof to basement, and there was absolutely nothing inviting or encouraging about the entire outlook. These conditions, with the prevailing panic and business depression at that time, combined to make a most gloomy future. But I also found a Board of Trustees willing and anxious to work and a few earnest young men ready to do what they could.

"Various lines of effort were soon under way as follows:

"(1)—Religious department.

"A Sunday afternoon meeting for men only was started and during all these years it has never been omitted. We were told such a meeting could not be maintained, but it has been, and the attendance has never fallen below 40, and the average has been from 75 to 100. We have the testimony of scores of young men who have been encouraged and inspired to persevere in a religious life, while many have been helped toward the beginning of a definite Christian experience.

"During these years the Sunday afternoon meeting for men has become one of the prominent factors in the religious life of the city. I urge upon all active members to rally to the support of this service. It is the center of power in the Association; neglect it and the work will suffer greatly. A Bible class for workers was started and the first year it had but three members; but those three young men are today giving their entire time to definite religious work, and were started in that direction as a result of joining that class. Classes in Bible study have been regularly maintained, and, during these six years and over more than 100 young men have received definite training in a better knowledge of the Bible and its use in Christian work.

"From time to time special meetings were held with evangelists; the annual week of prayer, beginning the second week of November, has been faithfully observed; special series of prayer meetings have been held, and in various ways we have sought to stimulate Christian young men to grow in grace and in the knowledge of Jesus Christ.

"(2)—The building.

"A renovation and overhauling of the building was commenced within two weeks after I arrived on the field. That work has been going on almost continually ever since.

"The interior of the building in August, 1894, and, as it now looks, would scarcely be recognized by any one not seeing it since that time. Changes in the arrangements of the rooms were made from time to time as the growing work and the needs of the tenants required. These repairs and changes were from the roof to the basement. It is unnecessary to enumerate them, but, together with street improvements, new sewers, etc., it has had much to do with the increase of the debt, but, while that is true, we should remember we have an improved property and a more attractive building for the work of the Association.

"In this connection it may be of interest to note the advancement made in rental income. In August, 1894, the Association had only one tenant, who was supposed to pay $125 per month, but it was very difficult to collect it, and the rent was finally reduced to $75 per month, of which a part was never received. But, happily, improvements have been made here, too, and in 1897 rent income amounted to $873; in 1898, $1,528; in 1899, 1,048, and in 1900, $1,850. Under the present favorable circumstances it will amount to $2,000 for 1901.

"(3)—Active efforts were made to increase the membership, and from a total of 265, including all classes, we have grown to a total of 622, which may be divided as follows: Life members, 12; associate, 106, active, 97; sustaining, 3; contributors, 175; junior, 140; honorary, 10; Woman's Auxiliary, 51.

"In 1894 the membership fee was $5 per year for those over 16, and $3 per year for juniors. Now to seniors it is $5 per year, to include physical department, and $3 50 per year without physical department. Juniors $1 per year.

"(4)—In educational work we did not find as good a field as most associations have in a city the size of Oakland. The close proximity of San Francisco, with its fine educational privileges; the strong business college; the splendid free evening school system of the Public School Department, and the great University at Berkeley, seem to occupy the field quite well. Then, too, the absence in Oakland of manufacturing concerns and other lines of business that employ large numbers of young men deprive us of a field to work in such as other cities enjoy. Nevertheless, we have maintained an evening school, and during the five seasons from '94-'95 to '99-'00 we have had 744 students enrolled in our evening classes. This side of the Oakland work should be persevered in, and when a better financial condition prevails it should be pushed forward to meet the needs of a growing city.

"Under this head we may speak of the splendid course of lectures and entertainments which have been provided from year to year, and, notwithstanding the fact that Oakland is really overdone in the matter of entertainments, and that prior to 1894 the Association had no reputation as a giver of good entertainments, we have steadily gained ground with the public and today our concerts and entertainments are looked upon as among the best. During the past six seasons we have had 113 concerts, lectures and entertainments, which had a total attendance of over 40,000.

"(5)—The physical department was the only live side of the work in August, 1894. Dr. W. W. Roblee, then a medical student, was conducting three evening classes per week, but, aside from these evenings, gave the work no attention at all; consequently it was under very poor discipline and suffered accordingly.

"In September, 1895, A. T. Brock was employed to give his entire time to the physical work, and from then this department has advanced to a most successful adjunct of our Association. Mr. Brock was succeeded by L. M. Myers in September, 1898, and under his direction a most efficient work is being carried forward, as the report of that committee demonstrates.

"Many valuable improvements have been made in the gymnasium. We have more and better apparatus than at any time, but there is still room for improvement. The shower baths have been greatly improved. They were poorly supplied with hot water up to 1895, and the old rubber pipe attachments were a nuisance. We now have a hot water supply second to none in the city, and the overhead showers are appreciated by everybody.

"(6)—Among boys from 11 to 16 years of age we have seen a great work done. My first thought in facing the tangle found in the junior department work in 1894 was one of despair. Upwards of 200 boys were using the building at all hours of the day and night. Their noise and boisterous conduct was distressing, and it was owing largely to the lack of restraint and regular hours for these boys that the furniture, lockers and the interior of the building generally was in such bad shape. I soon discovered that not to exceed fifty of these boys were members, and when I resolved to curtail them to definite hours, shutting them out entirely during the evenings, and insisting on members only using privileges, I entered upon a warfare exciting and trying. I will not weary you with a recital of those days, but will say that today we have the banner junior department of the Pacific Coast, with a paid-up membership of 140 boys. Three grades are provided in the gymnasium, each grade having two classes per week. The boys have their own club rooms, and are never allowed to run wild over the building or to come at all outside their own special hours. They are provided with entertainments and lectures from time to time, when members may bring boy friends. We have frequently entertained audiences of from three to four hundred boys. From time to time we have had special religious services for them, and we know of at least fifty who have been won to Christian lives. A Bible class meets regularly on Saturday mornings, which has an average attendance of twenty.

"In '99 and '00 a summer camp was successfully carried through, and the department now owns a camp equipment valued at $150.

"They have over 200 fine books in their library, and during the fall of last year nearly $200 was expended on their club room in carpets and furniture.

"This department, rightly handled, is of supreme importance. Take care of it, for 'The boys of today are the men of tomorrow.'"

OTHER FEATURES.

"Some of the work cannot be tabulated even in committee reports. For instance, caring for the stranger young man, surrounding him with helpful influences, occasionally finding employment for him, providing quite a number with comfortable and homelike boarding places amidst good influences—these cannot be measured in extent of influence by any standard of statistics—they mean sometimes the real saving of the man.

"Such work as this has been done week after week and year after year, and scores of young men owe their present positions and social and religious standing to the interest taken in them by this association and its officers.

"The Association has been, and is now, a benediction to all who come under its influence. Here they find associations guarding and building them up in righteousness and truth.

NEED OF THE WORK.

"The need of such a work cannot be questioned. In the city of Oakland, with its 60,000 people, there are over 200 saloons. Estimating the number of young men and boys from 18 to 30 as 10,000, it will be seen we have a saloon for every fifty young men. The many places of evil resort in our midst are seeking to overthrow the influences of home and church. Our city has practically but one place whose doors are open day and evening to welcome young men and surround them with all that is ennobling. That place is the Young Men's Christian Association.

"We are a large organization—not in membership, but in importance to the highest interests of the city. The average age of our members is less than 20 years. This fact suggests the importance of our field of work. It is during the period of adolescence, from 12 to 25, in which we are most helpful. During these years character is being made.

"While I am grateful for what has been done in the past years, yet I am sensible of the fact that there are many avenues of usefulness that might have been entered were we free from the burden of debt which it has been our lot to struggle under.

FINANCIAL REVIEW.

"This debt now stands as follows:

Mortgage on building..	$25 000
Notes at California Bank	15,700
A total of	$40,700

"The original debt, occasioned when the building was erected in 1889, was a little over $30,000. It will be seen that in these eleven years it has doubled. But before any hasty judgment is formed regarding that, bear in mind the following facts:

"(1)—The value of the property has increased at a rapid rate. The ground originally cost $17,000, and today it is worth $50,000. The location of the building is today ideal, and in a few years more it will be one of the valuable business corners of the city.

"(2)—Over $5 00 has been expended in street, sewer and building improvements, which has added to the value of the building and made it more useful to the Association.

"(3)—During 1893 94 and '95 it was impossible to raise money by subscription to any extent, but interest, taxes, insurance and the general expenses of the work had to be met, and the trustees were compelled to borrow. Since 1896 a contributing constituency has been built up, and now by careful management there ought not to be any increase of the debt, as there has not been for 1899-00.

"The treasurer's report tonight will show a small gain for last year.

"Three friends have pledged $10,000 toward the extinction of the debt, and it is hoped others will be found to help swell this amount to a sum where it would be possible to secure it all.

"I would not close this reference to our work without expressing appreciation to all who have aided us during these years. To the citizens who have given of their funds; to the ministers of the city who have given not only words of sympathy and encouragement, but pains taking service, to the volunteer workers of the Association on various committees; to the Woman's Auxiliary, who have at all times rendered loyal service; to the newspapers which have proved an important factor in extending the work; to any and to all who have assisted, directly or indirectly, in this important work which we love and which we believe is for the good of men and His glory—to all such I express my heartfelt thanks.

"Not unto me, but unto Him, be honor, glory and power. May He help you, my dear friends, to be more faithful this coming year. Give your co-operation to your new secretary and his helpers, that together you may make the coming year the best in all the Association's history.

"NOEL H. JACKS."

HERMANN LUTGEN DIES SUDDENLY.

Hermann Lutgen, a gardener, died quite suddenly of apoplexy early yesterday morning at his home, 1421 Thirteenth street. He had been ailing for the past several days, but his condition was not considered serious until it was too late to summon a doctor. Deceased was a native of Germany, aged 56 years. He leaves three sons and two daughters.

WHAT SHALL WE EAT

To Keep Healthy and Strong?

A healthy appetite and common sense are excellent guides to follow in matters of diet, and a mixed diet of grains, fruits and meats is undoubtedly the best, in spite of the claims made by vegetarians and food cranks generally.

As compared with grains and vegetables, meat furnishes the most nutriment in a highly concentrated form and is digested and assimilated more quickly than vegetables or grains.

Dr. Julius Remusson on this subject says: Nervous persons, people run down in health and of low vitality should eat plenty of meat. If the digestion is too feeble at first it may be easily strengthened by the regular use of Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets after each meal. Two of these excellent tablets taken after dinner will digest several thousand grains of meat, eggs or other animal food in three or four hours, while the malt diastase also contained in Stuart's Tablets cause the perfect digestion of starchy foods, like potatoes, bread, etc., and no matter how weak the stomach may be, no trouble will be experienced if a regular practice is made of using Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets because they supply the pepsin and diastase so necessary to perfect digestion, and any form of indigestion and stomach trouble except cancer of the stomach will be overcome by their daily use.

That large class of people who come under the head of nervous dyspeptics should eat plenty of meat and insure its complete digestion by the systematic use of a safe, harmless digestive medicine like Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets, composed of the natural digestive principles, peptones and diastase, which actually perform the work of digestion and give the abused stomach a chance to rest and to furnish the body and brain with the necessary nutriment. Cheap cathartic medicines masquerading under the name of dyspepsia cures are useless for relief or cure of indigestion because they have absolutely no effect upon the actual digestion of food.

Dyspepsia in all its forms is simply a failure of the stomach to digest food and the sensible way to solve the riddle and cure the indigestion is to make daily use at meal time of a safe preparation which is endorsed by the medical profession and known to contain active digestive principles, and all this can truly be said of Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets.

All druggists throughout the United States, Canada and Great Britain sell them at the uniform price of fifty cents for full treatment.

Baseball Schedule for Next Season is Completed.

Baseball.

Had McMenomy been given proper support last Sunday at Recreation park the game would have been a great deal different. Mac is a clever young pitcher, is as gentle as a lamb, and has a bright future before him if he remains at the game. Mac will have a chance next Sunday to display his ability against the Nobles again.

Joe Thomas has signed with the Marysvilles for next season. Thomas is fast going up the ladder of fame.

The Alamedas and Koenigs play at Recreation Park next Sunday. Should the Nobles lose to the Golden Gates and the Alamedas beat the Koenigs this same the boys from across the estuary will be in the lead.

The Golden Gates and Nobles of the Midwinter league will play next Sunday afternoon at Freeman's Park. The Golden Gates have signed some good material and a hot contest is looked for.

Jack Bulger, one of the greatest pitchers on the Coast, will be pitted against the Golden Gates next Sunday. Manager Lindman has not decided who his pitcher will be, but he says he will make the Nobles play ball to win.

Ayden, formerly right fielder of the Golden Gates, has resigned. He is a clever fellow, but needs a little more experience to play with a fast team.

What a trio of fast ball players Mitchell Thomas and Waterbury are. They are good ones.

Four games of baseball will be played in San Francisco every week during the coming season of the California Baseball League, and the schedule as a whole will be twice as long as the one of last season. This matter was decided upon at a meeting of the managers on the league on Monday evening. They met at Vice-President Eugene F. Peri's office and after electing officers practically decided on a schedule for the coming season. The officers elected were almost the same as last year and were as follows: President, James T. Moran of Oakland; vice-president, Eugene F. Bert of San Francisco; secretary and treasurer, Theodore F. Bonnet of San Francisco; board of directors, James P. Morley of Los Angeles, J. Cal Ewing of Oakland, A. H. Beebee of Sacramento and Henry Harris of San Francisco.

The same rules of the league as were in force last year were adopted, but the matter of umpires and scorers was postponed till a future meeting. There will probably be a change in the local scorer.

After a protracted discussion the main details of a schedule were agreed upon. They call for games in this city every Thursday Friday, Saturday and Sunday and in Oakland every Sunday morning. There will be no midweek games in Oakland. There will be four games a week in Sacramento and Los Angeles when the home club is playing in those cities. This may be giving the inferior cities rather more of baseball than the fans will support, but there seemed to be no other way to arrange the schedule. There will be no games in Los Angeles and Sacramento for three weeks at a time, as the respective clubs of those cities will go on long trips to other places, so there will be plenty of time for the enthusiasts in the two cities to have a rest. The schedule is therefore arranged very much on the principle of the Eastern leagues. When the San Francisco Club goes to Sacramento and Los Angeles the Oaklands will become the home team for this city.

This should prove to be quite exciting sport, as all the players take a keen interest in it. The best players of both teams will be formed into the regular team.

The match makers are preparing another boxing night to be held the latter part of the month, and have promised another good card of boxing for the occasion. The date will be published later.

The committee on entertainment is preparing another ladies' night to be held the first part of next month, after the Olympic Club tournament contests are over.

The card rooms are still attracting considerable attention, the most popular games being crib and whist.

Rehance Club.

The ladies' night at the Club Monday evening was a great success. The program was the best ever arranged by the Club, and the committee deserves great credit for its work.

Arrangements are being made for another gentlemen's night, which will be given after the first of next month.

Bowling has been brisk for the last week, and the alleys are kept busy every night.

The instructors are kept very busy with large classes on class nights. Quite a number of the boys are in training for the Olympic boxing tournament. All the Club boys feel very confident of Tom Stone winning the welterweight championship. He is a very clever boxer and a hard hitter, and has what few boxers have these days—a "good head."

William Minto Ward, Roswell Beebe Adolph Dieckman, William Ryder and James White journeyed to Mt. Eden in quest of ducks last Sunday. They were just getting good shooting and had secured eleven nice fat birds when Beebe fell overboard. It took them some time to fish him out of a salt pond, and in doing so they scared all the birds away. At least that is the story they told to account for the poor bag they secured.

George Franck left last week for a journey up the Sacramento river in quest of ducks and geese.

West Oakland Club.

The gymnasium on class nights now is presenting quite a lively appearance, as all the members are stripping or watching the three-round goes which are now one of the most popular forms of amusement.

There will be five three-round goes next Thursday evening, and they promise to be red hot ones, as they will be between those members who have entered the tournament and consequently they will mix it up.

Class nights are always well attended, and the instructors are kept very busy.

There were two applications for membership acted upon at the last meeting of the directors. They were J. Enos and Geo. Finis.

The club membership is rapidly increasing, and the affairs of the club are in a very prosperous condition.

D. Coakley's hand is getting better, and he hopes to be in good trim again by the middle of next month.

An indoor baseball team is being formed and the members have formed two teams and will start to play games next week.

WEDNESDAY .....JANUARY 16, 1901

WHY WE MOVE SLOWLY.

An exchange points out that the obstacles in the way of California's rapid growth in population have been the Mexican land grants consisting of extensive areas, which the owners have held intact, and the presence of Asiatic labor. While these two reasons have had an influence in retarding the trend of immigration this way, the principal cause is undoubtedly due to the high value placed upon all available farming property. During the gold era an enormous population was precipitated upon these shores, the vast majority coming for nothing else than to make fortunes from the mines. They gave no thought to the agricultural and horticultural possibilities that existed here, only a few possessing the prescience to buy property, which was then obtained at exceedingly low figures, and hold on to it. As it began to dawn upon the world that California's greatest wealth lay in the productions of its soil the value of land was immeasurably enhanced, and to such a figure that it got beyond the reach of the ordinary settler who had populated the Western States. They furthermore did not appreciate the fact that one acre here is as productive as ten acres in the prairie States, and when it came to purchasing the usual farming area of 160 acres at $20 an acre and upwards, the intending settler found that he was barred by lack of the necessary capital.

Then, again, the effort has never been made to attract the poorer class of immigrants to this State. This element has been frightened away by our reports and advertisements, which makes no provision for the man of limited resources. We have ding-donged away on oranges and other citrus fruits, as well as the high-class products of the peach, prune and pear orchards. We have clattered away about our wheat farms plowed by steam and watered by miles of ditching. All this implies the expenditure of enormous capital. What we should do is to advertise the advantages we offer to the truck farmer, chicken raiser and egg producer. There is plenty of land to be had cheaply, suitable for such purposes and only a small acreage is required. The Italians and Portuguese manage to wrest fortunes from small holdings, but they work and do not expect to play the role of the overseer. Other nationalities do not take to farming when they come to California. They want to become ranchers, and that term usually implies the ownership of a vast area of land, a hacienda and a small army of retainers.

What we require is the immigration of farmers like those who have created the great agricultural States of Indiana, Illinois, Ohio and Michigan out of wild and savage conditions. They have dotted those sections with happy, comfortable and profitable homes, and with that character of people here we would not have to import our eggs from Nebraska nor buy our vegetables entirely from the Chinese. What this State needs is the advertising of its small rural holdings, where land is cheap. We have surfeited the world trying to promote land deals with millionaires, let the toilers and practical workers know how their condition can be bettered by transplanting their farming operations to California. From ten to twenty acres will bring in dividends where several thousand acres only grow mortgages. We want more working farmers. We have enough tycoons directing Chinese retinues to last for several generations.

THE GIPSY MUST GO.

The career of the picturesque gipsy who figures so prominently in romance, poetry, kidnaping, fortune telling and horse-swapping is about to be cut short and his pilgrimage on earth brought to an end. The Hungarian government is considering a bill which by the Romany must either conform to civilized customs or be crushed as a race and as that part of the world is the headquarters of the Zingari it looks as if he will be unable to avoid the forcible command to change his haunts. The gipsy of poetry and song is the antithesis of the reality. Fortune telling and horse-trading are the most innocent of vocations, and if the real gipsy would stop there, civilization would readily tolerate the trait which impels him to wander upon the earth. But the gipsy has a known penchant for hen roosts and possesses no qualms of conscience about acquiring horses that belong to others. Furthermore, his peculiar inclination to take the children of other people is one that does not favor his cause, while again he is charged with filthy habits and personal uncleanliness, thus originating contagious diseases. The gipsy in story and poetry is divested of all these anti-civilized attributes, and of course is clothed in romance, but practically he is of no use and on the ground of health is a menace to the world. A new century demands that he be required to settle down to actual labor, and if he declines, then his end is near and his reign must be closed.

A Russian named Nakadiechikvez has been jailed on a charge of plotting against the life of the Czar. A man with a name like that has no right to go into the conspiracy business, for it certainly would not be hard to keep track of him—all that was necessary was to look out for the people with dislocated jaws, for that would give a line on those whose business required them to address him by name.

The advertising that the Czar's trans-Siberian railway is getting nowadays is not of a nature to induce travel over the line, for the prospect of being frozen to death en route can scarcely be considered a pleasant one. It looks as if there is a good field over that way for a smooth-tongued representative of the American steam heaters.

PHILIPPINE LAND FRAUDS.

"The reason there is a land question in the Philippines," says a recent writer, speaking authoritatively on the subject, 'is the slipshod and unbusinesslike way of dealing with land titles in the past," and he adds that large Luzon holders of realty are by no means confined to friars, but include also Spaniards, Mestizos and Filipinos.

We are not prepared to admit that the conditions obtaining in the Philippines are any more complicated than those which prevailed in Louisiana and the larger New Mexico, (including California) on the acquisition of those territories by the United States. That there is a prospect of years of litigation is no reason why we should not hold these valuable land possessions, for, despite a half a century of litigation over Californian titles, probably no one regrets that this State is part and parcel of the Union. The story of the present holdings of land in Luzon is that much of the realty held by rich families, such as the Tuesons of the Marquina valley, was acquired by fraud, complaining tenants being dispossessed by force and without color of law. There will have to be a great overturning of titles so obtained, and, incidentally, here is a field for young lawyers who speak and write Spanish. There was a similar revolution in such matters in Louisiana a century ago, and in California in 1850, however, and frauds were inquired into, many ranches held under spurious deeds were thrown back into the public land and everybody was satisfied. The patents to plantations of Louisiana and the ranches of the region formerly belonging to Mexico were examined and the lands were carefully explored and re-surveyed, and many alleged Spanish and Mexican grants were found to be forgeries or illegally issued. These were rejected, and such is undoubtedly the fate awaiting the wrongly-held patents in the latest Spanish-speaking land to fall under our dominion.

The American land laws are just and the common people of the Philippines will find that offenders will be punished and their ill-gotten territories thrown open for settlement to every citizen. We have a statute of limitations, but fraudulent transactions cannot gain any benefit by it, as the Filipinos will not fail to discover.

This Teacher Got an Unexpected Answer.

The following incident is related by a correspondent of the Plain Dealer in the South. It is told of Dr. James H. Carlisle, the venerable president of Wofford College, South Carolina, and counselor of the great Chautauqua system, with headquarters in this city.

When 10 years old young Carlisle was attending a typical country school of the South under the management of a typical teacher of the time, a stern and scholarly old gentleman. One day little James found difficulty in some of his work and his teacher, becoming impatient, took the boy's slate, and writing upon it the words "I am a fool," gave it to the little fellow, saying, "Here, James, sign your name to that."

The learned pedagogue proceeded with the other lessons, but on coming back to his young charge after a time noticed that the name had not been written. Becoming angry he demanded in thundering tones "James Carlisle, why did you not sign your name to that, sir." And little James slipped from his place on the high, rough old bench, and, looking his teacher squarely in the eye, replied: "Because it isn't true, sir."—Cleveland Plain Dealer.

Sir Frank Lockwood was once engaged in a case in which Sir Charles Russell (the late Lord Chief Justice of England) was the opposing counsel. Sir Charles was trying to browbeat a witness into giving a direct answer "Yes" or "No."

"You can answer any question yes or no," declared Sir Charles.

"Oh, can you?" retorted Lockwood. "May I ask if you have left off beating your wife?"—Green Bag.

Hamilton Lee, formerly of Oakland, officiated. Miss Gertrude Yoell of San Jose was the bridesmaid. Mrs. A. J. Merry, who accompanied her daughter to Honolulu, will be her guest for several months.

PIGEON CLUB MOVES FROM ALAMEDA TO OAKLAND.

ALAMEDA, Jan. 16.—At the regular annual meeting of the Pacific Pigeon Club held at its club rooms, No. 1421½ Park street, Alameda, Monday evening, January 14th, the following officers were elected for the ensuing year: President, John Mole of East Oakland; vice-president, Dr. C. M. Selfridge, Oakland; secretary-treasurer, B. T. McBain, Oakland; librarian, H. F. Whitman, Alameda; veterinary surgeon, Dr. C. M. Selfridge, Oakland. Race Committee—A. McIntyre, Oakland, secretary races; A. L. Schaffer, Oakland, B. T. McBain, Oakland. Executive Committee—W. W. White, Oakland, E. D. Connolly, Alameda; A. F. Lewis, Oakland; John Mole, East Oakland; Dr. C. M. Selfridge, Oakland; B. T. McBain, Oakland, H. F. Whitman, Alameda.

Mr. Dodge, the well known real estate man of 1166 Broadway, Oakland, was elected a member.

By unanimous vote it was decided to move the headquarters of the club to Oakland and from and after the first of February the club will have its rooms in the center of that city.

From the annual reports of the officers of the club it was easily seen that the club is in good financial condition and from the number of members on the rolls there will be warm times in flying pigeondom this coming season. At the next meeting the Race Committee will have completed its schedule for the coming season. For any further particulars, address B. T. McBain, secretary, 1467 Castro street, Oakland, Cal.

McKENZIE SUED.

BERKELEY, Jan. 16.—A suit is pending in the Recorder's court against D. G. McKenzie, to recover $100 due on a promissory note made in favor of Fred Alton two years ago. McKenzie borrowed the money from Alton in undertaking a trip to Alaska on a venture in which he and the man he borrowed from were partners. Alton died while in the north and his father arranged with McKenzie to secure the body from its grave near Rampart City and send it to this city. McKenzie on returning to the city was called upon for the amount due on the note. The defendant claims he earned the amount sued for in recovering the body of his friend.

Day Again on Trial.

The trial of William Day, charged with assaulting a little boy in the West Oakland yards, was taken up yesterday afternoon by Judge Ellsworth sitting for Judge Greene. Day was convicted at a former hearing but was granted a new trial. After securing eight jurors the regular panel was exhausted and a special venire was issued.

"I wrote Dr. Pierce regarding my case, and received a prompt reply, free."

"I endured nearly four years of suffering," writes Mrs. L. L. Myers, of Washington, W. Va., "caused principally from improper medical attention after the birth of a child, and female weakness, resulting in a complication of diseases. Had a terrible cough and an incessant pain and soreness in lungs. Was reduced in flesh from 184 pounds to about 100 pounds in eighteen months. I had no appetite, and became so weak and nervous I could scarcely sit up. I doctored with our home physicians for two years with no benefit, I was finally induced to try Dr. Pierce's medicines. I wrote to Doctor Pierce regarding my case, and received a prompt reply, free, advising the proper medicines for my case. After taking four bottles of Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription and four of his 'Golden Medical Discovery,' three doses each day, also taking one bottle of Dr. Pierce's Compound Extract of Smart-Weed and some of his 'Pellets,' I ceased coughing, and am now enjoying splendid health and have gained thirty-five pounds in weight. I again feel like my former self, thanks to Dr. Pierce and his great medicines."

MOSES OF THE BASTILE GOES FREE ONLY TO BE JAILED.

Incarceration in the city's Bastile as a jag cure is a dismal failure. This has been proven by Mose Allbach.

The "Moses of the Bastile," as he is familiarly known, was this morning given a farewell by the prisoners at the municipal Bastile where he had spent the past 93 days on conviction of going through the elbow movement before the bar too frequently.

Mose swore by all that savors of earthliness that he would turn his back upon the City Prison for ever this time.

Two hours later Mose was brought back in the patrol wagon. He had forgotten his promise, and as he returned to the prison corridor, greeted with joy by the prisoners he had so lately left, he remarked to the jailer, "You can't lose me, Charley."

Mose is convinced that imprisonment together with any possible subsequent release will never cure the liquor habit.

This morning in the Police Court Mose was given $2 or one day. He took the one day.

"Serving a life sentence by yards," said Mose. "All praise for the merciful Judge Smith.

FEW BILLS THAT MAY STIR UP CORPORATIONS.

Story That Leake and Belshaw are at Outs.

Measure That Will Interest Telephone Company.

SACRAMENTO, Jan. 15.—There is general discontent in the third House over the legislative situation at the Capital at present. Members of that body who came to Sacramento expecting that a good many heads of corporations would be here before the first week of the session was over complain that so far not a soul has come. They say that there is no organization to the third House, and that unless things are managed differently this session of the Legislature will prove to be flat, stale and unprofitable.

In spite of this wail there are some bills in the Legislature which are likely to bring to this city some of the men that the third House likes to see here. The measure introduced yesterday in the Assembly by Martin Brady of San Francisco authorizing counties to regulate the rates charged by telephone companies is one of these. It cannot be said that this bill, in itself, has anything in it that entitles it to be classed as among the "queer ones," but it is the opinion of many of the knowing ones that it is susceptible to amendment and manipulation that will make it a rather ugly drive at the telephone companies. A clause inserted to make it a misdemeanor or greater offense for telephone companies to demand and receive a nickel until after they have been given the switch asked for by a customer would doubtless bring the telephone men to the capital in cavalcades. It is impossible to estimate how much money that would take out of the pockets of a big telephone company in the course of a year. "Central" has a most exasperating way of demanding nickels and getting them without giving the expected quid pro quo. The loss of those nickels would amount to something to a telephone company, but if the public should be given an opportunity to turn the tables and get a switch without dropping a nickel the loss would be very much greater. It is not known that this bill will be so amended, but the possibility is mentioned as an instance of what might be done toward offering inducements to the managers of the telephone companies to visit the capital at this time.

Several insurance bills have likewise been introduced, which are also calculated to increase the patronage of the city hotels. Then, too, there are racing bills on the files and in contemplation which it would be well worth while to head off.

Not only is there to be a fight over the proposed legislation to fix a racing period, but it is likely some measures will be taken to prevent the race tracks from excluding persons who desire to attend the events. The law at present is so framed that the management of a race track can refuse to sell tickets to persons who it does not desire to have attend the races. At least that has been the custom, though there are pending in the courts a number of cases in which the excluded person has brought suit against the race track for attempting to exclude him, and, as several judgments have been rendered, it is a question as to whether even the present law sanctions this usage. To set the entire matter at rest the Legislature may pass a law making it compulsory for the management of tracks to sell to anybody who desires to buy a ticket. Those who favor such a provision say that it is wise as a preventive of fraud on the tracks, for if anybody can be excluded whom the managements may declare an objectionable person every critic of the methods employed in the races may be shut out.

The pool bills are also beginning to excite considerable interest and there are evidences that the season for activity among the pool sellers is at hand. There is a story to the effect that W. S. Leake and Senator Belshaw have had a falling out over the pool bill and that Leake will come to the Capital and do what he can to make Belshaw live up to a preelection compact. Belshaw, it will be remembered, introduced the bill to prohibit pool selling anywhere except race tracks or the ground upon which any sporting event takes place. Leake expected him to consider that his duty was performed when he had introduced the bill, and, perhaps, voted for it. Belshaw evinces a disposition to do more, and even to secure the passage of the bill.

FRIENDS OF THE U. C. DID NOT HOLD MEETING

Some Jealousy That is Causing a Little Friction.

Primary Law Will Be Passed at Session.

SACRAMENTO, Jan. 16—The friends of the University were to have had a meeting last night for the purpose of discussing the best plan for handling the bills which have been introduced to provide means of securing a greater income for the institution of learning at Berkeley. Some growling has been done by men who took an exceedingly lively interest in these matters before the meeting of the Legislature. They worked hard to arouse a sentiment in favor of a greater income, and also labored in the preparation of measures looking to that end. They now find that the bills have been introduced by men who have not been especially prominent in the movement, and there are some jealousies. In addition to this it is found that it will be necessary to do some active work in behalf of the University bills among the Senators and Assemblymen. It was mainly for the purpose of getting the friends of the University to work in this direction that the meeting was called for last night. Owing to the fact that several other engagements prevented some of the most active University men from attending the meeting was postponed. A more successful effort will be made in a day or two, and energetic work will begin immediately thereafter.

Bert Schlesinger, Democratic member of the Assembly from San Francisco, has introduced his bill relating to damages for loss of life. At present the law fixes the damages for the loss of the life of a child at the difference between the earning capacity of the deceased and the cost of maintenance. Two of the ablest judges San Francisco has had have been defeated for reelection because they gave decisions in accordance with this law—Judges Van Fleet and Dangerfield. No better evidence of the unpopularity, if not the actual injustice of the law could be given than that fact. Both of those Judges decided the cases for which they were held responsible by the people conscientiously and because there was no escape, the law being plain and explicit. Certain classes of voters were appealed to to defeat any Judge who would decide that the life of a boy who was killed by cars or in other accidental ways was worth, to the parent, only as much money as he could make over and above the cost of living and the appeal had the expected affect. Mr. Schlesinger's bill makes it discretionary with the jury to render verdicts of from $2,000 to $10,000 damage. That is the Massachusetts law and has been found to operate very satisfactorily. A jury is expected to arrive at the amount of damages by weighing the extent of the capability of the defendant. It is believed that this bill will pass, as there is very general sentiment in favor of it.

That there will be a primary law passed at the present session of the Legislature is now conceded—that is, a law to regulate primaries in San Francisco will certainly go through. The sentiment of the legislators in relation to this matter has been ascertained in one way or another and little if any objection has been found to giving San Francisco anything she wants in this direction. Oakland, Los Angeles and other large communities may be included, but small towns and sparsely populated counties must be left out, otherwise there will be serious opposition from the country. So many bills in relation to this subject have been introduced that very little headway has been made in reaching a report as to the best law that can be devised.

The Assembly suffered the loss of one of its members yesterday. B. Collins of Butte died in this city after a brief illness from grippe. Assemblyman Collins was rather an old man, and had been ailing almost from the day of his arrival in this city. He was chairman of the Committee on Universities and was looked upon as a very intelligent and valuable member of the House. He was the father of Wilkie Collins, a well known newspaper man of Sacramento, and of another grown son now in the East. His place on the committee will have to be filled by the Speaker.

The Senate has also suffered from absence, through sickness, of one of its members. Senator Meunter of San Joaquin left this city for home last week complaining of a severe cold and it has since been learned by his friends that he is lying at the point of death from pneumonia. Meunter is a very young man whose first appearance in public life was two years ago, when he served as a member of the Assembly. He is starting life in politics in very favorable conditions, being quite wealthy and having many influential friends. He is a giant in stature and his illness was a very unexpected stroke of ill luck.

The weather at Sacramento has been very trying. It has rained a great deal and when it was not actually raining the skies have been overcast and the atmosphere humid and cold. Bad colds and slight attacks of grippe have been quite numerous.

The members are getting down to the committee work. A good deal of business is being done at night. Last night the Committee on Municipal Corporations met and had under consideration what is known as the franchise bill. The features of the bill were discussed at length and it was decided to report the bill favorably. This is an important step toward the passage of the measure, and means a good deal both to San Francisco and Los Angeles. In the latter city there is a big battle on between the Southern Pacific Company, which owns street railroads, and the traction company, which is endeavoring to get franchises.

It was thought, when the bill was first introduced, that a way would be found to defeat it because its tendency is to fortify the position of those in control and ing the field. Endorsement of the bill by ing the field, endorsement of the bill by the committee gives the impression that it will go through. If it should, the effect will be to strengthen the hands of the San Francisco Gas and Electric Company in San Francisco and of the Southern Pacific People in Los Angeles. The judiciary of the Senate met last night organized, but did not transact any business.

It is not likely that the movement on the part of the country members to form an organization for protection against the cities in the matter of the reapportionment of the State will be a success. A meeting was held yesterday afternoon, at which Assemblyman Duryea presided. Assemblymen Ralston and Anderson were present. Those who participated discussed the wisdom of forming a protective association to shield them from the political machinations of the more sophisticated and adroit city chaps, but there was not the spirit of harmony that should mark the proceedings of a body of men who are gathered together for self-defense. Mr. Ralston is said to have remarked in the course of the meeting that the country members would be unable to prevent encroachments by the city delegations if they stood separately, each man for himself, but that if they united they might be able to accomplish something. Mr. Anderson thereupon remarked that the country members ought to have thought of that a little bit earlier. This reference to his own defeat and the full possession by the city people of the offices and most of the committees of the House was an evidence that Mr. Anderson is still smarting from his defeat, and the taunt to Ralston and the country members was not indicative of peace. But the movement has not yet been abandoned, and another meeting will be held.

It is probable that work on the apportionment will begin at once, as it was announced last night that a meeting of the Senate committee would be held today for the purpose of beginning the work.

Sportsmen will be very much interested in a bill which Senator Laird has introduced for the State Game Protective Association. The close season for doves is fixed by this measure from February 1 to July 1, and for mountain quail, grouse or sage hen from November 1 to September 1. It is made a misdemeanor to have any of these birds in one's possession during the close season. No person can have in his possession in one calendar day more than twenty-five quail, partridges, snipe, curlew or ibis, or more than fifty doves or ducks, or more than twenty rail or eight black or white sea brant. It is made a misdemeanor to kill or have in possession at any time female deer or spotted fawn or antelope, elk or mountain sheep. It is also a misdemeanor to hunt, kill or have in possession male deer between October 1 and August 1, or to have in possession any deer meat. The close season for squirrels is from February 1 to August 1. It is made a misdemeanor to buy or sell pigeon, quail, brant, partridges, pheasants, grouse, sage hen, doves, ducks, rail, curlew, ibis, snipe or plover or deer meat. For violating any provisions of this act the penalty is not less than $50 or more than $500 or imprisonment not less than fifty days or more than 150 days, or both fine and imprisonment.

ENGLAND WILL NOT OPPOSE THE CANAL TREATY.

Big Change in Public Sentiment on the Question.

Article By Henry Watterson Puts the Case in a New Light.

Associated Press Dispatches by The Tribune's Special Leased Wire.

NEW YORK, Jan. 16.—A dispatch to the Tribune from London says:

An article written by Henry Watterson of the Louisville Courier-Journal on "The Relations of the United and England" is attracting much attention here. It is considered an adroit and friendly summary of American opinion respecting the Nicaraguan canal and a strong appeal to the Foreign Office for the acceptance of the Senate amendment to the new treaty. Copies of the article have been sent to Lord Lansdowne, Arthur Balfour, Joseph Chamberlain and other members of the Cabinet, and it is hoped that it will exert a marked influence in promoting the settlement of the canal question.

The points on which special stress is laid in this article are the statements that the Senate has not added anything Lord Salisbury would not have sanctioned if he had been consulted in advance by Secretary Hay; that no English interests are touched by the amendments; that Lord Salisbury, by accepting the revised text, can lay the foundation of a friendship between the two nations more enduring than any alliance, and that there are strong reasons for a better understanding and a working agreement between the United States and England. Colonel Watterson's representative character as a Southerner and a Democrat lends great authority to this expression of American opinion.

Now that they have had time to calmly consider the matter, a noticeable change is taking place in the views of the leading English newspapers with regard to the Nicaragua Canal question.

The Telegraph this morning adopts a distinctly friendly tone. It points out that, after all, so far as the substance of the controversy is concerned, there is no practical difference. England is prepared to recognize America's claim to the control of the undertaking, so long as provision is made that the Canal shall be free and open to vessels of all nations on terms of entire equality, so that there shall be no discrimination against any nation in respect of conditions or charges on traffic or otherwise. These two vital principles, remarks the Telegraph, have not been touched by the Senate amendments to the Hay-Pauncefote treaty. Summing up the whole situation, this friendly newspaper arrives at the decision that if the United States were to press for the formal abrogation of the Clayton-Bulwer treaty in the usual diplomatic manner the British government would not prove difficult to deal with.

BOLIVIAN FORCES ARE DEFEATED.

Tiny Republic of Acre Making a Brave Resistance.

Government Troops Routed and Now Besieged By the Rebels.

Associated Press Dispatches by The Tribune's Special Leased Wire.

NEW YORK, Jan. 16.—A dispatch to the Herald fro Rio Janeiro says:

Alarming news, unfavorable to the Bolivian forces that are endeavoring to crush the so-called republic of Acre, is continually arriving from Manaos.

The Acre forces routed the Bolivians recently near Capatern in the rubber forests. Dispatches add that the Bolivians retreated to Puerto Alonso, are now surrounded by the rebels and are undergoing a siege.

General Lucio Velasco, Vice President of Bolivia, is reported to be besieged at Rio Sinso, where he took refuge with one of the armies operating in the forests.

It is declared that numerous Brazilians are in the ranks of the rebels, most of whom went originally from Brazil into the so-called republic.

The Bolivian Minister has presented a note to the Minister of Foreign Affairs protesting against the participation of any Brazilian officials or forces in the rebellion. The note declares that the Bolivian steamer Lutrea, which was used in operations against the Acreans, had been seized by Brazilian expeditions coming from Manaos and Para.

It is asserted that the government has resolved to take steps to intervene in the Acre question, in view of the charges of the Bolivian Minister that Brazilians are aiding the rebels.

GLUT OF SUGAR IN ARGENTINA.

Fifty Thousand Bags to Be Exported at a Loss.

Associated Press Dispatches by The Tribune's Special Leased Wire.

NEW YORK, Jan. 16.—A dispatch to the Herald from Buenos Ayres says:

In view of the excessive sugar stock, the sugar manufacturers have resolved to export 50,000 bags of sugar at a loss.

Numerous mill owners have held a convention with the object of accepting measures for the exportation of flour, especially to Brazil. In view of the attempts made by the American Minister at Rio de Janeiro to have the government favor American flour to the prejudice of the Argentine product.

The Minister of Agriculture, Garcia Merou, former Argentine Minister at Washington, has promised to send a commission to the United States to study there the conditions of flour exportation.

Mill owners have also requested the government to accord a reduction of railway tariffs. There is also a proposition to give a bounty on the exportation of flour, but the press is opposed to this measure.

Emeryville Girl Was Bound to Be a Wife.

Bridegroom Was Glad to Escape With His Life.

Yesterday evening Miss Hattie Jones of Emeryville, sister of Eddie Jones, the well known jockey, was married in San Francisco by Judge Joachimizer to Francis Joseph Desmond, head butcher at the Tesla coal mines, in this county. The couple had known each other only a week. The ceremony took place at the office of Marriage License Clerk Danforth.

It was witnessed by Eddie Jones, his father, Humphrey J. Jones, and Police Sergeant John Duncan. After Danforth's office closed yesterday Mr. Danforth was sent for by the elder Jones, and the request for a license was granted.

Judge Joachimizer was then secured and Desmond and Miss Taylor left his presence husband and wife.

The marriage was quite hurried. The butcher did not notify his friends of the affair. He was glad to get away alive.

OPEN EVENINGS.

MANAGER HUTCHINSON GIVES AN ACCOUNT OF MONEY.

BERKELEY, Jan. 16.—Reno Hutchinson, who as graduate manager is in charge of the student finances of the University, today made public a detailed report of receipts and expenditures during the football season, showing an excess of receipts over expenditures of $5,201.65. This surplus wipes out the $5,000 debt with which the students started out on the football season just ended.

Receipts—Freshmen vs. St. Matthews, $82; California vs. Reliance, $200.90; Freshmen vs. Belmont, $71.25; Freshmen vs. Berkeley High School, $30, California vs. Reliance, $252.50; Freshmen vs. Lick, $57.65; Freshmen vs. Santa Clara, $57.50; Intercollegiate Freshmen, $1,001.50; California vs. Reliance, $377.60; California vs. Nevada, $165; California vs. Oregon, $225.50; California vs. San Jose Normal, $22.75; Intercollegiate, $12,597.50; training table, $11; equipment sold, $7.60; souvenir programs, $250, season tickets, $1,227; posters, 25 cents. Total, $16,412.20.

Expenditures—Coach, $1,000; trainer, $466; assistant trainers, $100; drugs, $515; equipment, $1,179.12; labor, $315.95; guarantees: Reliance, $675; University of Nevada, $125; Oregon, $250; printing, $245.45; hotel and dining, $333.75; training table, $1,280.04; rooms for football men, $35; mending and padding suits, $171.85; expense of teams: St. Matthews, $19.50; Belmont, $17.25; Santa Clara, $12; Reliance, $9.50; Lick, $5—$93.25; excess of complimentary tickets, $62.12½; telegrams, $29.57; tools, $37.99; grounds, $175; grand stand, $75; police, $25; transportation of teams, $11.50; trip to San Jose of second team, $60; railroad fare, $53.40; coaching expenses, $156; distilled water, $23.75; laundry, $13.90; bandages, towels, etc., $11.45; lime, $6.25; moving bleachers, $27; cement work for showers, $30; photos of team, $7; football fence (lumber $77.72, labor $40), $117.72; lumber, $16.12; press clippings, $7.50; coal oil, $7.40; ticket case, $7.50; telephone, $9.55; miscellaneous, $151.65; half common expense Thanksgiving game, $2,525 75. Total, $11,609.65; balance, $5,201.65

CONTRACT AWARDED.

BERKELEY, Jan. 16.—The Board of Trustees has awarded the contract for building the new High school to Robert Greig, although his bid was $670 higher than the proposal of C. Christiansen. Greig will build the main High school for $53,200 and the laboratory structure for $5,200. Christiansen, who is from Oakland, offered to construct them both for $57,870. The committee appointed to investigate the business standing of the two bidders reported favorably on both men, but found that Christiansen could not complete the buildings in six months, which the Berkeley man agreed to do. On that showing Greig got the contract. Work is to commence at once and the structure will be finished in time for the opening of school next August.

JOLLY FARCE PLEASES THE DEWEY PATRONS.

"All a Mistake" drew another good house at the Dewey last night, and the ludicrous complication and witty dialogue of the play kept the audience in a roar of laughter. Maurice Stewart as Frank Buster, a faker, did excellent work, and E. J. Holden as Sampson Buster was at his best. W. O. Howe as Isaac Schwartz, on the lookout for a son, did some clever acting, and the rest of the characters were well sustained.

THE STAR BOARDER AT THE MACDONOUGH.

"The Star Border" which comes to the Macdonough Friday and Saturday for a two-nights' engagement, is one of the best farce-comedies on the boards, and as a mirth producer it would be hard to beat. There are a number of pretty girls in the cast, whose songs and dances are a strong feature of the performance.

Slicer Case Compromised.

The suit of the Slicer heirs against the Alameda Macadamizing Company, which has been pending before Judge Hall, was dismissed yesterday afternoon by stipulation, the terms of compromise offered by the defendant having been accepted.

CLOTHING THAT FITS

In order to get a real fit—garments which look as if they were made for you—which are tight where they should fit tight and loose where they should be loose, which emphasize your good points and conceal any deficiencies which your figure may possess, which give you that air of aristocratic elegance which every man covets, must be made by men who are artists in their line. Such are the clothes we can make for you.

Suits from $14.00 up.
Trousers from $4.00 up.

FRAGRANT GRAIN FIELDS.

Food That Takes One Back to Childhood.

"The delicious odor that comes when you pour hot milk or cream over Grape-Nuts takes one back to childhood and the wide, golden harvest fields when the wind blew in your face the scent of ripened grain, and made you, oh so hungry!

"Of all the appetizing foods, Grape-Nuts food is the chief. I was led to change my diet and take up Grape-Nuts from the fact that I had a very serious, long-standing case of constipation, which originated from coffee drinking. Constant headaches, backaches, and a stomach that felt like lead, was the condition; while the mind was filled with misgivings of all sorts, and I verily believe I would have gone insane if it had not been for the temporary relief from various cures for constipation, but there seems to be no permanent relief except in good food like Grape-Nuts.

"This food is the same to a weak stomach as kind words and a gentle touch, to an aching heart. All my doubt and fear and distress of mind disappeared as soon as I found a food that I could digest and which relieved my difficulties. Life became brighter and better, my home a "sweet home." I have proved conclusively that the food is really predigested and that it is a great nerve and energy builder. Of course I can hardly express my gratitude for the relief I have had." Emma Knuffman, Bismark, Mo.

THE FUNERAL OF JESSE BRODERSON.

The funeral of Jesse Broderson, the Alvarado rancher who was murdered in cold blood last Thursday, took place from James Taylor's undertaking parlors on Clay street shortly after 2 o'clock yesterday afternoon.

The services were conducted by Rev. William Kelly, who in his oration referred to "the vileness of sin that grasps men who for the sake of a little gold will stop at nothing."

"Here is a man who was innocent, kind and cheerful," said Rev. Kelly. "He had not an enemy in the wide cold world.' He goes to his little home one night and a dastardly scoundrel lies in wait for him. Suddenly there is a flash as of lightning, followed by the noise of thunder and the old man falls. No one near to lift him or administer to him, and while perchance his few dollars are taken from his pockets, he utters a silent prayer and his spirit leaves.

"This sin comes from a second Cain; to send this kindly old man before the bar of his God for a few paltry silver pieces.

"Think ye that the scoundrel who killed this man will escape the just punishment that awaits him? The detectives may not trace him. But the great eye of the God that is on the evil and the good will call him to account for this dastardly crime."

The interment was in Mountain View Cemetery.

Default Is Entered.

A default has been entered against the defendant in the divorce suit of Dora against Edwin Wooster. The case will be submitted to the Court Commissioner to take testimony.

Quips and Quirks.

"Uncle John," said little Emily, "do you know that a baby that was fed on elephant's milk gained twenty pounds in a week?"

"Nonsense!" exclaimed Uncle John, and then asked: "Whose baby was it?"

"It was the elephant's baby," replied little Emily.—Our Dumb Animals.

The young author was reading from his manuscript.

"At this," he read, "Maude De Vere drew herself up."

"Where did she get the pulley?" asked the caustic critic.—Chicago Post.

The "Just Wright" Shoe.

Men who desire stylish and durable footwear at a price that is reasonable endorse the "Just Wright Shoe" as being second to none, which are made exclusively for men. This shoe has a national reputation, recognized as absolutely the best $3 and $3.50 shoe made. Mr. C. L. Broad has established the Oakland agency at 475 Twelfth street, between Broadway and Washington, where the public can rest assured of dealing with a gentleman who is well and favorably known hereabouts, and known as a practical shoe man, having formerly been in business in this city for many years.

Secures a Position.

H. Davis, a member of the regular trial jury panel, was excused today from further service, having secured a position at Sacramento in the employ of the State.

AT BED TIME

I take a pleasant herb drink, the next morning I feel bright and my complexion is better. My doctor says it acts gently on the stomach, liver and kidneys, and is a pleasant laxative. It is made from herbs, and is prepared as easily as tea. It is called Lane's Medicine. All druggists sell it at 25c and 50 cts. Lane's Family Medicine moves the bowels each day. If you cannot get it, send for a free sample. Address, Orator F. Woodward, Le Roy, N. Y.

Burglars at Work.

There was a bold burglary committed some time Monday night at the big cannery of the California Fruit Canners' Association at First and Filbert streets.

Over 200 pounds of solder was carried off by the burglar, and that no one in the settled neighborhood about the cannery heard nor saw anything of the robbers or their movements is regarded as marvelous.

The police are investigating.

HAPPENINGS AT LIVERMORE.

Lady Minstrels Will Give a Second Performance.

LIVERMORE, Jan. 16.—The ladies are making great preparations for their minstrel entertainment to be given on Friday night for the benefit of the free public library. Over 500 tickets have already been sold and all of the reserved seats taken several days ago. The female end men claim to be perfect in their make up, and a night of home-made fun is looked for. After the entertainment of Friday night a social dance will be given. The number of tickets sold is so great the ladies have concluded to give a second performance on Saturday evening.

The show bill gotten up by the ladies is unique.

PRESIDENT C. M. HAYS TALKS TO THE MERCHANTS.

At the meeting of the Chamber of Commerce in San Francisco yesterday afternoon President Charles M. Hays of the Southern Pacific Company spoke as follows:

"I came over here this afternoon with the express understanding that there were to be no speeches. I believe, from the boards and from the floor of the chamber, there have never been any speeches.

"If you are very well acquainted with railroad men you know there are very few of them that are ready at all times and on all occasions to lift up their voices. I believe there is but one railroad man who has a national reputation in that respect, at least but one with whom I have been familiar. He lives on the Atlantic Coast. Since I have been here I have been led to believe, however, that there is one not distantly connected with the Southern Pacific that has been on occasions and at various times able to lift up his voice. I am looking in his direction, but won't mention any names just now.

"I am very glad to be with you here today, gentlemen, and to meet you and to acknowledge your cordial, kindly expressions of welcome. They are only what California, San Francisco and the Pacific Coast generally have been noted for, and I see, although twenty years have passed since I was first on the Pacific Coast, that you have not changed in that respect, and, in fact, if it were possible, the reception extended to strangers seems even more cordial and friendly than before. Coming, as I do, a stranger in your midst, it is peculiarly welcome to me, and I am not going today to do more than express my appreciation of that welcome and to say to you that I expect to make my home with you. I want to be one of you, and to be regarded as such, and to have you feel that at any time, if there are any matters in regard to which the Southern Pacific Railway can work to mutual interest with you in the development of the Coast and your business interests, we shall at all time be only too glad to give those matters that consideration and that earnest, careful regard which our mutual interests require.

"Gentlemen, I am very glad to have met you. I think you."

President Hays was well received by the merchants. He was given a splendid reception and made a very favorable impression.

LITTLE DOG ATTACKS A LITTLE GIRL AT LORIN.

LORIN, Jan. 16.—Miss Lily Gross, the 6-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Gross of Fairview avenue, was bitten by a mad dog yesterday. The little girl was on her way to school when without the least warning a little terrier ran up to her and caught her by the leg. The girl's screams attracted the attention of a pedestrian, who ran to the child's assistance. The animal was dispatched with a couple of kicks.

The wind storm last night did quite a little damage in and around Lorin. Heavy board fences were blown down and trees destroyed. Windows were broken and windmills and porches were partially destroyed.

James Millard has gone to Bakersfield to attend the funeral of his brother George, who died of pneumonia. The deceased visited Irvington last summer. His parents moved from Irvington to Bakersfield a few years ago. George was born here. The family have the sympathy of every one in their great loss.

Mr. Eaton returned from Sacramento on Tuesday. He reports his son George as getting along finely from the three amputations of his limb which was injured while performing his duties as a railroad employe. His foot was run over and crushed by an engine. He was conveyed to the railroad hospital, where the foot was amputated at the instep, but the wound not healing properly a second amputation was necessary. This time they took off the leg just below the knee, but as it did not do well, a third amputation just above the knee was performed which the unfortunate man lived through and now he is gaining rapidly.

Master Net Witherly and Florence Blacow were both unable to attend school the first day of the term on account of DELAWARE FIGHT.

Associated Press Dispatches by The Tribune's Special Leased Wire.

DOVER, Del., Jan. 16.—The General Assembly met in joint session at noon today and voted for two United States Senators, one for the full term beginning March 4th, the other for the unexpired term of four years.

The vote was practically the same as in separate session yesterday, the twenty-nine Republicans again dividing on both propositions. The ballot for the long term was as follows: Kenny, Democrat, 23; Addicks, Union Republican, 13; Dupont, Republican, 5; scattering, Republicans, 4.

For the short term: Saulsbary, Democrat, 23; Addicks, Union Republican, 16; Richards, Republican, 9; scattering, Republicans and Democrats, 4. Absent, one regular Republican.

CADETS HISSED.

Disagreeable Incident of the Hazing Inquiry.

Associated Press Dispatches by The Tribune's Special Leased Wire.

WEST POINT, N. Y., Jan 16.—When the Congressional Committee met at the Military Academy today and before any witnesses were called Congressman Wagner of Pennsylvania addressed the committeemen. He referred to the published reports of the hissing incident at the close of the afternoon session yesterday. Mr. Wagner said that in at least two newspapers army officers were charged with taking part in the hissing. He desired, however, to express his firm belief that no expression of disapprobation was made by any officer present at the time. He was pleased to hear that Colonel Hein, acting superintendent of the academy, had instituted a thorough inquiry regarding the matter. Mr. Wagner said that since the committeemen had been treated with the utmost courtesy by all the officers, he would be sorry should any erroneous impression become prevalent throughout the country.

General Dick and all the committeemen concurred with the views of the Pennsylvania Representative and the matter was then dropped.

JAPS RESCUED

Hongkong Maru Picks Up a Crew Adrift in the Pacific.

Associated Press Dispatches by The Tribune's Special Leased Wire.

SAN FRANCISCO, Jan. 16.—The steamer Hongkong Maru arrived here today from the Orient with a shipwrecked crew of Japanese aboard. On January 2d, one day out from Yokohama, the vessel sighted a ship dismantled, flying signals of distress. There was a heavy sea running at the time, but Captain Filmer stopped his vessel and lowered a boat and rescued the eight men, who proved to be a party of Japanese, commanded by Captain Adsuma.

December 7th Captain Adsuma had sailed in the two-masted schooner Selsho Maru of Wakayamaken, from Magami, bound for Tokio. The vessel, which was loaded with lumber and charcoal, was blown out to sea by a heavy typhoon and dismasted on the 11th. For the balance of the month until rescued they drifted about off the Japanese coast.

When rescued they were down to their last sack of rice. Owing to the heavy sea, Captain Filmer was unable to set fire to the derelict, which is a 150-ton boat.

TEACHER MAKES NO DEFENSE.

Professor Biedenbach of the High School was seen by a TRIBUNE reporter this morning with reference to the assault which he made upon Leon Gray, a student of that school, yesterday noon, in the attempt to break up a rush which was in progress between the low and high senior classes. Mr. Biedenbach was asked if he had struck the lad in question and replied:

"I have nothing to say."

Speaking on the subject, Principal McChesney of the High School said:

"The matter will be inquired into this afternoon. Prof. Biedenbach has not spoken to me about it yet. He brought the boy to me yesterday afternoon about 1 o'clock, I guess. Another teacher told me that the boy had struck Mr. Biedenbach. The boy admitted that he had struck the teacher, but apologized for it."

FUNERAL OF THE LATE THOMAS PULLIS.

The funeral of Thomas Pullis, the well known extraman of Hose Company No. 1, took place this afternoon from his late residence, 458 Sixth street. The exercises were conducted by Rev. Father Nolan of the Church of the Immaculate Conception. A number of members of the Fire Department headed by Chief Ball and Assistant Chief Lawton, as also about 100 members of the Bohemians of America were in line. Interment was in St. Mary's Cemetery. The pallbearers were Sam Short, Ike Foster, John McCarthy, James Flynn, John Rohan, P. Reader.

PULLMAN PORTER HAS SMALLPOX.

E. H. Winston, a Pullman car porter, walked into the Health Office this afternoon and said he was sick. It was found he had a virulent case of smallpox.

Will Know His Fate.

William Eaton, convicted of criminal assault, will know his fate next Wednesday. Judge Greene announced this morning that he positively would not grant another delay in his case after that day. A motion for a new trial is pending.

Trusted Employe Gets Away With Three Thousand.

Associated Press Dispatches by The Tribune's Special Leased Wire.

NEW YORK, Jan. 16—J. Prevost Mason, third teller of the Continental Bank of this city, is in jail, charged with embezzlement. Mason was arrested late last night. The specific charge is the stealing of $3,000 by means of false entries.

The peculations foot up $12,000, according to the Fidelity and Casualty Company, which was on Mason's bond for $10,000. Mason is 43 years old and lived with his wife and daughter. He had been with the bank twenty-seven years and received a salary of $1,800 a year.

Bank Examiner Charles A. Hanna went to the Continental Bank Saturday to look over the books. Mason complained of not feeling well and said he guessed he would go home. A clerk was put in his place. It was not long before the clerk discovered something which led him to notify the bank examiner and the shortage was found.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 16.—The House has passed the river and harbor bill.

TREBELLI SCORES A SUCCESS ACROSS THE BAY.

Music lovers in this city are greatly elated over the opportunity afforded them of again hearing the peerless singer, Trebelli, as she is best known, her real name being Mlle. Antonia Dolores. She is now appearing in a series of popular matinee concerts at the Columbia Theater in San Francisco, which are attended by the fashionable and professional musicians of San Francisco and the surrounding towns.

At the matinee yesterday the theater was thronged and the fair singer was applauded to the echo.

Trebelli appears in another matinee concert at the same place tomorrow afternoon and will unquestionably be greeted by a large house of admirers and friends.

HAWAIIAN TO GO TO WEST POINT.

Associated Press Dispatches by The Tribune's Special Leased Wire.

HONOLULU, Jan. 10.—Via San Francisco, Jan. 16. — Representative Wilcox has decided to limit the competition for the West Point cadetship to Hawaiians. For some days past several native boys have been examined in a general way regarding their qualifications to pass the examination for admission to West Point. The following stand highest and their names will be sent to Mr. Wilcox for him to appoint: Joseph Aea and Daniel Yowell. Both young men are graduates of the leading school for natives.

It is rumored that Mr. Wilcox has agreed to appoint the son of Lieutenant Commander Pond, the acting commandant of the local naval station, to Annapolis.

LAST CONCERT OF THE ORPHEUS CLUB.

Mrs. Frederick Stratton Delights a Large Audience.

Fervent Farewell to Robert Clarence Newell.

The third and last concert of the seventh season of the Orpheus Club in the Unitarian Church last night introduced Mrs. Frederick Stratton, contralto, to an audience of admirers and friends and at the same time bade farewell to the director of the organization, Robert Clarence Newell, who is about to leave for the antipodes in the furtherance of his professional work. The auditorium and Sunday School room were filled with people and the program, varied and interesting as it was, was enjoyed to the utmost.

Toward the close there was an unbending of the formality which usually characterizes such occasions, and the last number on the program was "Auld Lang Syne," in the singing of which the Orpheus was assisted by the audience, which remained standing during the effort. The fact of the departure of Mr. Newell had previously been announced to the audience by President George H. Collins. He told how, for the past two years, Mr. Newell had been in charge of the Orpheus Club and how signally successful had been all his efforts. Mr. Newell had gained the respect and esteem of music lovers of this city and would, wherever he went, carry with him the kindliest wishes of all who knew him.

The Orpheus rendered seven pieces, no two of which were the same in sentiment or style of composition. This was a heavy task, but it was performed in a creditable manner. In so far at least as the training and devotion of the members there was nothing left to be desired. They seemed to take pleasure in their work and the leader had them under wonderful control. "Oh Fair, Oh Sweet and Holy," "Appear Love at the Window," and "Batching It" early captivated the audience. Cornelius' "Christmas Song" was also feelingly rendered, while "Hark the Trumpet Calleth," one of the most difficult of the selections of the evening, was sung with true martial fire and spirit.

The "Dream King and His Love," the cantata number by Staeger, was the most trying of all the efforts. There was a slight unevenness at times, but this was not surprising, because of the exactions which the piece made were taken into consideration.

Mrs. Stratton's appearance was greeted with applause. She was gowned in a fetching manner and presented a charming appearance. The stolidity of the professional, the assumed ease of the amateur, were wanting. She was unconsciously natural and at ease, which served to augment the bond of sympathy between the singer and the audited.

Her first number was Rubenstein's "Es Blinkt der Thau," a thoughtful piece with technical difficulties, which was sung with ease and appreciation. "Good Night," also by Rubenstein, was several shades lighter and tenderer, and in this Mrs. Stratton showed that her voice has the sympathetic quality in a liberal degree. She also sang Schubert's "Serenade," to the vocal accompaniment of the club, and sang it delightfully. "Hey Dolly, Ho Dolly," by Loomis, was the next effort, in which there was a gradual breaking away from staid and solemn numbers, and this was rendered with the nicest shade of kindly good nature.

"Love Is a Bubble" was tenderly and sweetly sung, and with so much success that the audience wanted more, and Mrs. Stratton good naturedly granted their request, responding to the recall with one of the daintiest, sweetest little lullabies ever heard in that auditorium. It was sung with an artless grace, simplicity and sweetness which was captivating. It was attuned to the sentiment of the audience, as it was keyed to the pitch of the singer's voice. Mrs. Stratton's voice is not intended for auditoriums of the exposition order. It is for such an auditorium as that in which it was held last night, which it always filled with melody. It is a voice sweet, clear and resonant. In its use Mrs. Stratton displays great versatility, being equal to an artistic interpretation of the sentiment in every number. Her work was an enlivening feature of the evening, and the recollection must be as grateful to the lady herself as it certainly will be to her auditors.

Mr. Newell's solo effort on the piano was Chopin's First Movement, Sonata Opus 35. He played it with his well known skill, as he did also a piece called for by an encore.

Miss Esta Marvin played the piano accompaniments, and her playing in no small degree contributed to the pleasure of the evening.

WILLIAM R. DAVIS MAKES SPEECH AT SACRAMENTO

Chairman of Electors Tells of Great Party.

Oakland Man Was Honored at the State Capital.

William R. Davis' speech at Sacramento as chairman of the Electoral College was as follows:

"Fellow Members of the Electoral Board, I thank you sincerely for the honor of being chosen to preside at these significant ceremonies, and fellow citizens all, inasmuch as the order of ceremonies calls for remarks by the chairman-elect at this point, it becomes my part at once to comply with the duty thus assigned to the chairman.

"We are to be congratulated upon the fact that the important act of the State which is about to be consummated here and now is to be consummated with ceremonies befitting so significant an act of the commonwealth as a part of the American Union.

"Our assembling is not to announce the victory of a party, but to pronounce the will of the sovereign State of California. There is no spectacle in government, the world round, better evidencing the progress of man and his right to, and ability for, self-government than the hearty recognition in the American Union that in all events majorities decide and minorities abide. And in that spirit, acting by her Presidential Electors, California today, as one of the sister sovereignties of the republic, voices the will of the whole commonwealth and, under the constitution, announces the name of one American citizen as her choice for the presidency and that of another for the vice-presidency of the United States—William McKinley and Theodore Roosevelt.

"California, the commonwealth—none of the forty-five is more worthy of the love and pride of her inhabitants. Many States are older, but none so fair, many more populous, but none whose population excels this in industry, intelligence, educational progress or love of the Union, many nearer the heart of our national population, but the heart of the Nation beats strong enough to send the blood of loyalty to the Union and of love of liberty coursing through American veins in California with as strong pulse and as healthy flow as in any center of the Nation's population.

"It is sometimes said that now we are within reach of the greater sister States and in touch with the national life. It is better than that. We are in pulse with every throb of the stout heart of this stalwart Nation. That thought is the theme of my contribution to these constitutional proceedings.

"California in herself is, of course, great, but she is greater in that she is part of the American Union. California is great in territory, yet not so great as Texas; but both take their real greatness because they are two stars on the flag of this Union. California has mines, fields, forests and harvests, rivers, roadsteads and harbors and a sea coast of a thousand miles. But that coast is more than a coast line of California. It is a thousand miles of ocean front of this Nation, a thousand miles of the western world—front of the United States of America—seventy-seven millions, they of us and we of them, here facing the new cycle of time, the unowned stretches of the high seas and the problems of duty, of destiny and of primacy of this great republic. State pride is as but a taper burning in a closed chamber when compared with the searching splendor of the countenance of America herself as one standing here upon our soil and hers, conscious of her primacy, facing her high responsibilities and her greater destiny.

"Our history recorded lies yonder, to the east. Our history to be recorded lies here and yonder, to the west. At the beginning we were but three millions, our home along the austere shores of the Atlantic. We grew and passed over the Alleghanies, increased and spread into the great valley of the Mississippi; multiplied and passed over the Rocky Mountains, then scaled the Sierras and, today, we here take our stand from Canada to Mexico as one people, breasting the Pacific—our Union once of the Atlantic expanded into the Union of the continent from sea to sea, our people a mighty Nation, that Nation a power in the earth. Then at home on the shores of the Atlantic only, the United States is now at home against the Atlantic, across the breast of the continent and against the Pacific at home in the glistening fields of the miser Alaska, against the Arctic, at home at Porto Rico in the tropical waters of the Gulf; at home in Hawaii, America's oasis in the trackless Pacific, at home in the prolific Philippines, the other limit of America's jurisdiction which spans well nigh around the world. Our Union owns all this—first organizing, then civilizing, then uplifting into the freedom of constitutional self government.

"What has achieved so much? It is the genius for government and the courage that reddens in the Anglo-Saxon blood. Battle cannot drive, fire cannot burn, earth's chemistry cannot filter that courage out of the blood which has built the American republic. The torch of civilization in the hands of the Anglo-Saxon race cannot be extinguished nor the red, white and blue of America be torn from the skies. Terrestrial gravitation can no more than bend to the staff the material fabric of the flag; but the celestial gravitation in the Stars and Stripes uplifts and gathers to itself seventy-seven millions of unconquerable hearts. Let insurrection but raise its head or foreign foe but lift its hand to smite America, and the wondrous power in the Stars and Stripes, gathering defenders to itself, will assemble from land and sea the countless hosts of reunited America invincible. Flag of the skies—it uplifts and inspires the living; it exalts the dying while they in safety cross over by the light of its shining folds, and though it descend it shall never come down save as a benediction to enfold its loving dead, to wrap some defender of freedom in freedom's drapery. Such is the flag and such the Union to which we belong—nay, which belongs to us as a people and which, while we worship them we set control and direct as the agency of a people in the progress of mankind.

"New difficulties will array themselves before us, new problems—some perceived and others yet unknown—will arise to confront us; new responsibilities are already upon us. But the brain, the conscience, the genius for government and the patriotism of seventy-seven millions of Americans can overcome difficulties, solve problems, bear responsibilities, uphold the starry ensign of civilization—and still the depths of this Nation's conscience will endure, still the deep ocean of America's devotion to liberty rock secure in its mighty bed.

"'Flag of the skies, float on forever;
Sire or son shall desert thee never.
Though Time turneth ever page upon page,
Thy youth shall endure from age unto age.'"

WILL WORK FOR ADVANCEMENT OF THE UNIVERSITY

Alumni Will Be Tested in Dollars and Cents.

Propose to Erect a Grand Building at the U. C.

The Alumni Association of the State University, of which Librarian Greene of Oakland is president, will hold a regular meeting next Saturday evening at the Mark Hopkins Institute of Art, corner of California and Mason streets, San Francisco.

Following are the main objects of the meeting, according to the call issued by the Trustees.

To vote on Constitutional Amendment proposed by A. F. Morrison at meeting of September 15th.

To receive the report of the Committee on Changes in the Constitution.

To consider a proposed plan for the collecting of funds for the purpose of erecting an Alumni building in the grand scheme of University buildings.

"The new Benard plans may be on exhibition for the inspection of the Alumni. President Wheeler will be present and address the meeting on the building scheme, which has his hearty endorsement. In order that Alumni may be thinking of this matter, a brief outline of the plan, as it now stands as the result of many informal conferences of Alumni, is given.

"That there is love and loyalty in the Association as well as numbers and strength enough to make it willing and able to provide for the erection of an Alumni building in the grand scheme. Almost all of the great Eastern universities have similar buildings.

"That in order to make the building represent all the Alumni, every member of the Association shall be given an opportunity to subscribe to the fund.

"That the cost of the building should be not less than $100,000.

"That in order that the burden should not be too heavy, even though widely distributed among our members, subscriptions should take the form of recurrent payments extending over a period of ten years, or until the building is done and paid for.

"That each of the members should be invited to join one of the following classes: (a) Those who will pay $1 a year. (b) Those who will pay $1 a quarter (c) Those who will pay $1 a month.

"That systematic canvass be made through class unions, where such organization is maintained, or through committees of each class, who will agree to place the matter clearly before every member of the class either by interview or letter. These committees should be so constituted that each member may be assigned to not more than ten persons in a class.

"That while main dependence is placed on these small subscriptions, aid to the scheme should be welcomed in any way it may be offered. That any person, class, fraternity or other body of men or women, or both, shall be encouraged, if it desires so to do, to undertake specific and distinctive portions of the work, as the decoration of a room, the erection of a wing, or the furnishing of any useful or ornamental adjunct to the building.

"The whole subject will be before the meeting for discussion, modification, adoption or rejection. That there may be no hesitation on the part of any person lest he may be asked to subscribe at the meeting and subjected to any embarrassment if he does not, no subscription will be asked for, received or announced at the meeting.

"The Committee of the Associated Alumni on Plans for Increased Revenues for the University have been at great expense in familiarizing the community with the plans drawn up by them. This expense has been met thus far by individual contributions of from $25 to $50. But the funds are exhausted just as it becomes necessary to maintain representatives at Sacramento to answer the questions of the legislators and to see that the bills move forward properly. For the present the greater part of the Alumni dues will be used for this purpose. The dues are one dollar per year, and any amounts, large or small, will be gratefully received and credited on the books of the Alumni Association as dues for the current and for succeeding years, unless the payer expressly wishes to have them otherwise credited. The enclosed coin card has been prepared for this purpose, and you are urgently asked to help the Association to perform the important tasks now before it.

"By order of the Trustees,
"FRANCIS P. DUNN,
"H. B. TORREY,
"F. A. PERKINS,
"CHAS. S. GREENE,
"President.
"JAS. SUTTON,
"Secretary."

SHIPWORK ON THE HARBOR ON THE INCREASE

There has never been on the Pacific Coast a period in which more shipbuilding was done than is now going on wherever that kind of work may be performed. This is especially true of the yards on Oakland Harbor.

Yesterday the steam schooner Acme was launched from Dickey's yards, on Oakland harbor, and towed over to Mission street wharf, San Francisco, where she will receive her machinery.

At Hay & Wright's, an army of men is employed and a number of ships are on the ways, among them a four-masted schooner with a capacity of 900,000 feet of lumber.

At the yards of W. A. Boole & Son there are also a number of ships on the stocks, and one of these will have a capacity of 1,250,000 feet of lumber.

BROKE TANSY'S FACE WITH WHISKY BOTTLE.

Wm. Dysart was arrested at Seventh and Wood streets yesterday on complaint of Tansy Red, who charges him with assault with a deadly weapon. Tansy declares Dysart "broke his face with a whisky bottle, without giving him a drop internally."

Tansy's upper lip was severed almost entirely and had to be pasted back with plaster and sewed, and the injured man also believes that one of his lamps is out for keeps."

THEY WILL TALK ABOUT ANIMALS.

The Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Animals will be entertained this afternoon by the Oakland Club at 1119 Jefferson street. "Human Education" will be the topic of the afternoon. Addresses will be made by Mr. and Mrs. Holbrook of the San Francisco Humane Society, Rev. B. F. Mills, president of the Oakland Society, and Miss Ruth Willard, superintendent of the Band of Mercy work.

YOUNG SEXTON'S BODY ARRIVES FOR BURIAL.

The body of Thomas Sexton, who was drowned in the Mississippi River last week, arrived in Oakland yesterday and the funeral took place today from the residence of his parents, corner of Twenty-sixth and Union streets. The interment was in St. Mary's Cemetery. Deceased was 20 years old.

WHEELER SAYS M'KINLEY WILL COME TO COAST

Expects to Have Him at Commencement Exercises.

President of the U. C. Tells About His Trip East.

President Benjamin Ide Wheeler of the State University arrived from the East last evening and was at his office this morning.

"While in Washington," said Dr. Wheeler, "I visited the President and extended an invitation to him to be present and take part in the University commencement exercises. The invitation was accepted by President McKinley, contingent upon the possibility of arranging the program of the trip. The President expressed his hope that nothing would deter him from attending the exercises. Nearly the entire Cabinet will accompany President McKinley on his trip. The party expects to be in San Francisco from about the 15th to the 19th of May. The exact program cannot be arranged until after the inauguration ceremonies have been completed.

President Wheeler has been gone just a month and brings back much important information as to the future of the University, including plans for the first new buildings under Mrs. Hearst's plans. Continuing, he said: "While East an investigation was carried on concerning the choice of an architect for University plans. Mrs. Hearst is anxious to go ahead with the erection of the mining building under the Benard scheme. We consulted the leading architects in Boston and New York concerning the course which the University might best pursue. We have considered the desirability of securing a supervising architect, who shall have charge and oversight of all the buildings under the Benard plans, and who may himself plan one or more of the individual buildings. If one of the five successful competitors of the Hearst competition should be chosen such a solution of the problem would be most acceptable to all. Negotiations are in progress which we hope will lead to such an outcome.

"The bill for the support of mining schools has passed the United States Senate and the House Committee, and needs only the action of the Committee on rules to be brought before the House, where it will almost certainly pass. The committee, however, seems to be unfavorable at present.

"In New York and Boston I conferred with four or five leading book publishing firms with reference to discovering their attitude towards the new movement undertaken by the State Board of Education to provide the schools of California with an improved series of State text-books. The problem is to find out what can be done to improve our system of text-books under the existing laws. A recent decision of Attorney General Ford confirms the opinion of the State Board of Education that under the existing provisions of the constitution the board has the right to acquire the use of text-books now on the list of the school book publishers, the same to be printed at the State printing office and thence to be distributed to the schools. It has been a question whether the publishers would consent to any such arrangement in any form whatever. The whole proceeding is a novel one from the publishers' point of view. After a careful consideration the publishers prove to be not entirely averse to attempting the experiment. They are not, indeed, willing to dispose of copyrights, but they would probably be willing, provided proper business arrangements could be concluded, to do one or two things: First—To permit the use of duplicate sets of plates on the basis of a royalty; or, second—to furnish sheets to be made into books at the State Printing Office.

There are many difficulties connected with the business arrangements, particularly regarding the price for the use of the plates and regarding the right of the board to enter into a contract for a period of years, say five. It is so important for the State, that something should be done—something real and practical, that the matter should now be pushed to a conclusion and the board given the necessary power to see the matter through. The whole question will be brought up at the next meeting of the State Board of Education, which is to be called at an early day. This much has been discovered, that there is nothing absolutely impossible about the project. It will require, however, for its successful outcome the hearty cooperation of all the friends of education."

President Wheeler denies absolutely that he was called to the Presidency of Harvard University or that he ever expects to be called there.

Did Not Pay Alimony.

Joseph Martin, who is suing his wife for divorce, has been cited to show cause why he should not be punished for contempt for disobeying the court's order to pay her alimony pending the litigation.

TROUBLE AT STANFORD IS TALK OF STATE

Profs. Little and Hudson Have Retired From Faculty.

Did Not Like the Way Professor Ross Was Treated.

The people of California are watching the crisis at Stanford University. Four professors have dropped out of the lists and more resignations may follow. Yesterday Professor Hudson presented his resignation, as follows:

"Stanford University, Jan. 15, 1901.

"President Jordan—Dear Sir: For more than a year I have for personal reasons contemplated presently severing my connection with Stanford University. Recent events now precipitate my decision to do so.

"As you are well aware, I was from the first in strongest opposition to the new policy of the university inaugurated in the dismissal of Dr. Ross—a policy destructive of those first principles of academic freedom upon which, as you have repeatedly said, the university was originally founded. Ever since the occurrence of that incident I have seriously doubted whether it would be possible for me, consistently with my opinions, to retain my position in this faculty. But now that, in further pursuance of such policy, you have seen fit to demand the resignation of a man whom you yourself, in common with all who have known him, have long regarded as one of our ablest scholars and noblest teachers, for no other reason than that furnished by his just condemnation of the action of the university authorities—now that, in this way, you have clearly shown that it is the intention of the university to inhibit fair criticism of its methods no less than frank discussion of public affairs, no doubt is left in my mind as to my course. Whatever plans I might otherwise have made I cannot, under existing circumstances continue to hold my chair. I therefore tender you my resignation, to take effect at your pleasure. Faithfully yours,

"WILLIAM HENRY HUDSON."

On the receipt of Professor Hudson's letter, Acting President Branner accepted his resignation in the following language:

"Leland Stanford Junior University, Office of the President, Stanford University, Jan. 15, 1901.

"Professor William H. Hudson, Stanford University—Dear Sir: Your resignation as professor of English literature in the Leland Stanford Junior University, addressed to President Jordan, has been handed to me as acting president.

"Waiving the question of the validity of the reasons you put forward for your action, I hereby accept your resignation, to take immediate effect. Very truly yours,

"J. C. BRANNER,
"Acting President."

Professor Little tendered his resignation in the following letter.

"Stanford University, Cal., January 15, 1901.

"President Jordan—Dear Sir: Ever since the dismissal of Dr. Ross, against your protest, for expressing in the discussion of public questions opinions displeasing to Mrs. Stanford, I have considered whether I, who hold similar opinions, could be willing to remain in the faculty of Stanford University. Your recent call for the resignation of a man whose ability and independence of character I have admired for twenty years, because he uttered, in a form courteous to you and to Mrs. Stanford, condemnation of a policy destructive of the academic freedom in which you profess to believe, put an instant end to my indecision.

"I hereby resign my chair as professor of mathematics in Leland Stanford Jr. University, to take effect at your convenience. Sincerely yours,

"C. N. LITTLE."

The following letter accepting his resignation immediately was received from Vice President Branner by Professor Little. It was short and to the point:

"Leland Stanford Junior University, Office of the President, Stanford University, Jan. 15, 1901.

"Professor Charles N. Little, Stanford University—Dear Sir: Your resignation as professor of mathematics in the Leland Stanford Jr. University, addressed to President Jordan, has been handed to me as acting president.

"Waiving the question of the validity of the reasons you put forward for your action, I hereby accept your resignation, to take immediate effect. Very truly yours,

"J. C. BRANNER,
"Acting President."

BUILDING GOES DOWN BEFORE THE NORTHER.

Hard Luck of the Elaterite Roofing Company.

New Plant at West Oakland Is Again Destroyed.

The Elaterite Roofing Company, which established works recently near Sixteenth street station, has had a hard tussle with the elements.

The original works were totally destroyed by fire about a month ago, and the new plant which was being constructed on the old site was razed to the ground last night by the norther that swept over the city.

Not a stick of timber in the new structure was left standing.

The work of rebuilding was commenced shortly after the fire and the new plant would have been ready for operation by the beginning of next week. The building was practically completed, the work of shingling the roof having been nearly finished yesterday.

When the wind was at its height last night the residents of the Sixteenth street section were awakened from their slumbers by a loud crash and a cracking of timber, but when they peered from their windows they saw nothing out of the way and it was not until daylight that the extent of the damage was discovered.

The big frame building was as flat as a flapjack, its timbers were broken and twisted and much of the lighter material was scattered blocks away. The destruction was complete.

The loss, which will reach several thousand dollars will fall on the roofing company, as the building was being constructed by day labor.

BRANDES SECURES A NEW TRIAL.

As indicated in yesterday's TRIBUNE the Supreme Court has granted W. A. Brandes a new trial. Brandes is under a life sentence for the murder of his 14-year-old daughter. He attributes the action of the Supreme Court to his fervent prayers to the Almighty.

LOST HIS MONEY AND PART OF HIS EAR.

Augustine Moreal got into a dispute over a poker game in a Broadway saloon last night and was thrown through a window. His left ear was nearly severed from his head by the jagged glass. He was taken to the Receiving Hospital where Dr. Stratton sewed the ear in place. No arrests were made. Moreal claims to have come from Los Angeles and asserts that he lost $75 in the card game that resulted so disastrously.
